Earl Butz resigns, John Knebel takes over

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL, Pa. - John Knebel, making his first appearance as Acting Secretary of Agriculture, made a favorable impression on a group of 400 farmers who were gathered here at the Penn Harris Motor Inn on Monday evening. He had become the new head of USDA just hours before when former USDA Secretary Earl Butz resigned.

Welcomed by a standing ovation from a partisan crowd, the new chief announced that the policies of his predecessor would not be interrupted. With national TV and radio on hand, he talked about the farm programs of the last few years and compared how farmers stand today as opposed to several years ago.

"The American farmer today is better off and freer than at any other time in this century," the new Secretary began confidently. "In the thirties a farmer was in violation of the law if he dared to plant 15 acres of grain. Under this administration you can plant what you want to," he exclaimed.

"We've been criticized by some for not having a 'food policy' - they couldn't be farther from the truth," Knebel continued. Our food policy can be summed up in one word - 'plenty.' "

Praising American agriculture and the American farmer, Knebel pointed out that net farm income during the past year was $25 billion - a figure which is more than twice of what it was during the last year of the previous Democratic administration. "And that income didn't come from government payments, it came from the market place," Knebel announced vigorously before a crowd which was applauding at just about every sentence.

According to Knebel, who has a reputation for knowing figures, $150 million were paid last year to peanut growers as subsidies. Quick to avoid taking any 'credit' for this USDA expense item, Knebel pointed out that the subsidy dates back to a program introduced by the Franklin Roosevelt Adiministration. He also claimed that Butz and others have tried to rid the Department of the program but have met with too much opposition to date to push it through.

Returning to the positive side of the ledger, Knebel compared farm exports of this year to those of 1968 - the most recent of past - Democratic presidential years. "The last Democratic year, $6.4 billion worth of agricultural goods were exported," the new chief remarked, "this year it's 22 billion."

Criticizing the policies which allowed for surplus grain reserves which were used to depress prices, Kxebel assured his listeners that USDA's aim would be to "continue free market"

Radiation 'blown up'

SOUTHAMPTON, Pa. - Radioactive fallout was in the news this past week and concern continues to be heard about possible contamination of pasture grasses and milk. As of this date there is no need to be concerned. Should this change, dairymen will be officially advised to remove their dairy cows from pastures.

The radioactivity was caused by an atomic bomb set off by the Red Chinese. Some members of the news media have triggered reports which are "blown out of proportion" according to dairy industry spokesmen here and in Harrisburg.

Attention is generally focused on milk whenever radioactivity levels rise because it has been a "handy" method for measuring fallout.

The highest measurements taken so far indicate a level of 413 pica-curies in milk. A measure of 10,000 pica-curies is considered to be dangerous. In some areas radiation has increased 20-fold, but even at that rate it is only one per cent of what is termed dangerous.

Kauffman family wins Manheim Holstein show

MANHEIM - The Robert Kauffman family of Elizabethtown cleaned up in Holstein competition, winning all the champion banners in the show which was believed to be the largest ever held here.

Winning grand champion honors was Linda Kauffman with "Sunappe Astronaut Ruth," a 3-year old daughter of "Paclamar Astronaut." Reserve distinctions went to her father, Robert, who was in the ring with "Hermandale Elaine," an 8-year old daughter of "Agro Acres Marquis Ned."

The Kauffmans' junior champion was "Penn Springs Black Joe Katy," an intermediate calf sired by an Astronaut son.

In the 4-H and FFA division, it was Paul Horning of Stevens R1, who took the top titles - both grand and reserve grand. Junior showmanship and fitting honors went to Jean Ginder. The senior division categories were won by Paul Horning and Neal Crouse, respectively.

Following are more detailed results, by classes:

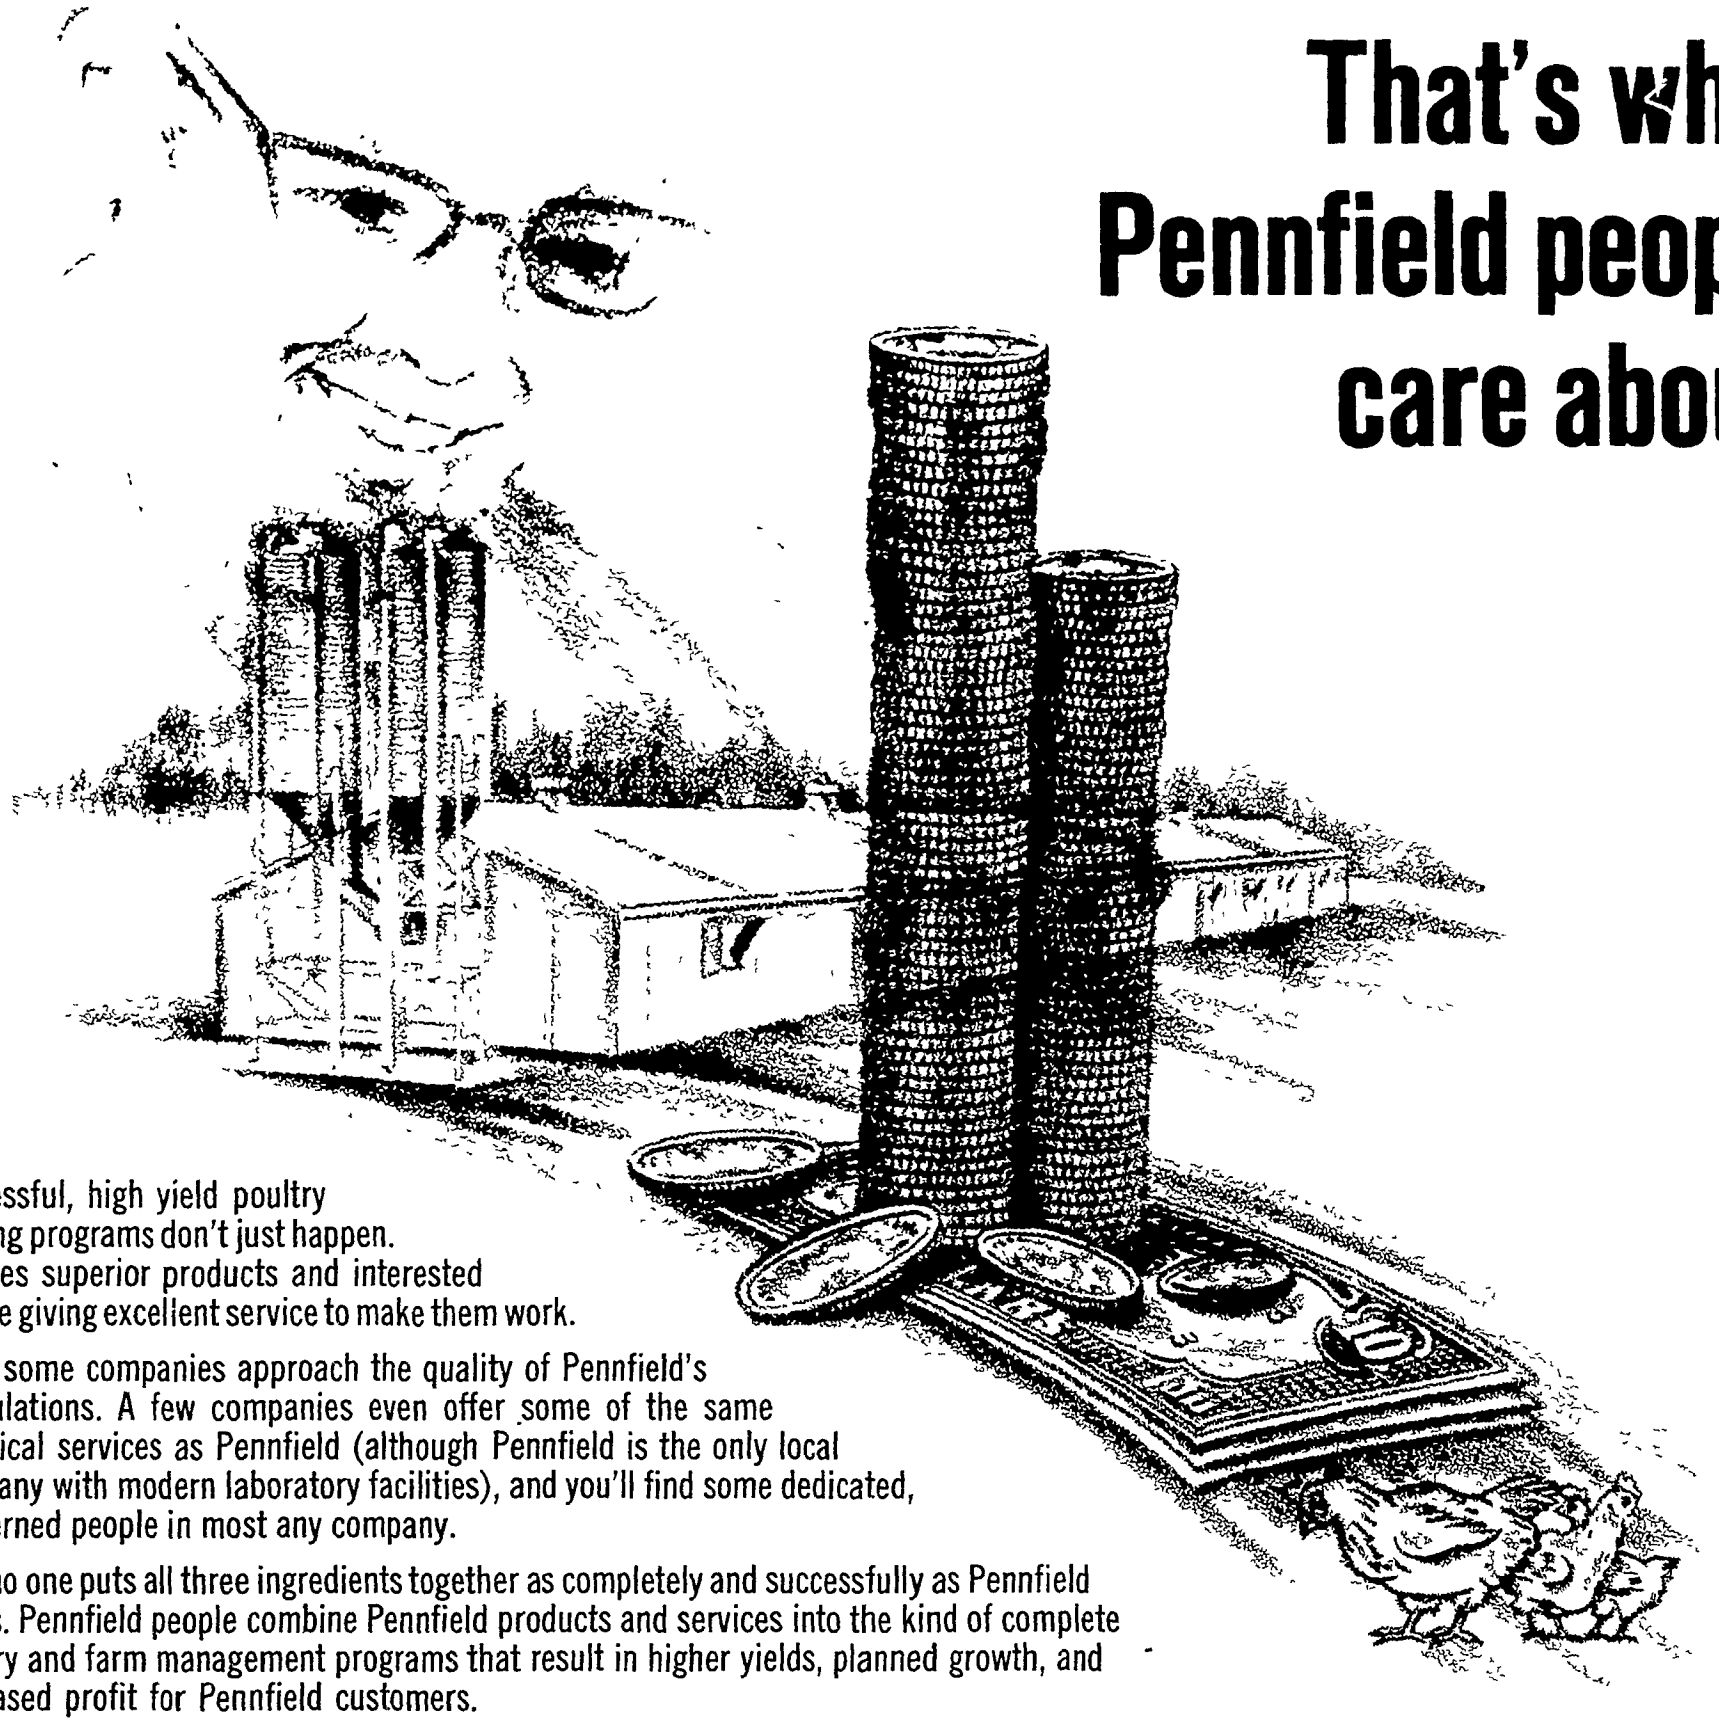
Your POULTRY PRODUCTIVITY, your PROFITABILITY.

That's what Pennfield people care about.



Successful, high yield poultry feeding programs don't just happen. It takes superior products and interested people giving excellent service to make them work.

Sure, some companies approach the quality of Pennfield's formulations. A few companies even offer some of the same technical services as Pennfield (although Pennfield is the only local company with modern laboratory facilities), and you'll find some dedicated, concerned people in most any company.

But, no one puts all three ingredients together as completely and successfully as Pennfield Feeds. Pennfield people combine Pennfield products and services into the kind of complete poultry and farm management programs that result in higher yields, planned growth, and increased profit for Pennfield customers.

Chemists, nutritionists, production personnel, veterinarians, computer technicians, business and marketing analysts, deliverymen, quality control specialists, financial experts, and more . . . led by your Pennfield Area Manager who can put them all together to develop and service a customized, profit-oriented program for you. These are Pennfield people. And, Pennfield people make Pennfield Feeds a better buy.

Declare Your Independence Guarantee Your Market

We at Producers Pride aren't trying to start any revolutions. But if you're an independent egg producer—or if you'd like to be—we can help you get the kind of freedom you want without jeopardizing your income.

Producers Pride is a cooperative. It's owned and controlled entirely by producers who want a voice in how their eggs are marketed. We've been in business since 1932. For over 34 years, Producers Pride members have been getting paid every week for their previous week's egg shipments. We have never, ever missed a week.

When you join Producers Pride, you become part owner of the business. And since we're not a giant co-op, your voice as an owner is important.

You'll be joining a small organization—fewer than 200 producers—but we have the volume to service a growing market. And our markets are growing, thanks to the dedicated efforts of a small but hard-working and very capable staff.

We are your friends and neighbors in the egg business. We enjoy being independent; and we enjoy having a guaranteed market for our eggs.

This is the year for independence, and Producers Pride is looking for a few more good members. If you'd like more information, put your John Hancock on the coupon below and mail it.

Grain to Soviets

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S Department of Agriculture announced recently a sale of 400,000 metric tons (15 million bushels) of U S. Hard Red Winter wheat to the Soviet Union

Part of the sale (220,000 tons) will be shipped in the 1976-77 wheat marketing year. (June-May) and the remainder (180,000 tons) in the 1977-78 marketing year.

Since all shipments are after Oct. 1, 1976, the sale will count against the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Long-Term Grain Supply Agreement.

The sale was reported to the Department under its export sales reporting program which requires sales of 100,000 tons or more to a single destination to be reported to the Department within 24 hours.

This sale brings total sales of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union for shipment in the 1976-77 wheat marketing year to 2,377,000 metric tons (87 million bushels), and total sales of grain and soybeans to the Soviet Union out of the 1976 U S crops to 6 6 million metric tons

Dairymen! LET US CHECK YOUR MILKING MACHINE'S PERFORMANCE!

NO CHARGE! NO OBLIGATION!

If you have a problem of teat and udder erosion in your herd — chances are you are milking with unstable vacuum And, as more and more animal health authorities have been agreeing that many teat and udder injuries — which have contributed to the spread of mastitis — have been caused by unstable milking vacuum you should have your milking machine's performance checked

We'll be happy to do this for you with our DETCO Graph Machine It's a remarkable, new invention that records vacuum readings at the milker units attached to the teats, recording the milking vacuum and pulsating vacuum simultaneously And tells you in easy to-understand graph form, as shown in the photo above, if you are milking with unstable vacuum at the teat end

Increasing the size of your vacuum pump and the size of your air and milk lines are good recommendations But if you still don't have stable vacuum at the teat ends — investigate our ZERO CONCORD Twin-Vacuum Pipeline Milking System It's a combination of a revolutionary pipeline milking machine and the ZERO Completely-Automated Vacuum Bulk Milk Cooler It was designed especially to milk with stable vacuum at the teat ends to prevent teat and udder injuries caused by milking with unstable vacuum And has many other advantages

Nixnutz's Corral

By BARNEY NIXNUTZ

"All the news that's unimportant, but still interesting"

A nomination

At the Pennsylvania dairy princess pageant, held last month in Camp Hill, it was pointed out that dairy princesses from 40 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties were represented What about the other 27 counties?!

If there aren't any qualified girls up that way, yours truly has a suggestion It would be especially appropriate since the gals are invading the guys' domain and everything is being mixed up anyway There's a fellow at one of Pennsylvania's milk cooperatives who ain't too bad lookin' and he's rather talented as a guitar strummer, impersonator of Daniel Boone, and possibly also Pat Boone What's more, he really and truly believes in milk Sounds to me, folks, like he's a natural for the job.

Trading holes

Some folks around Leola, Lancaster County, have given up on the highway people fixing a road that badly needs repairs So the community took up a collection and tackled the ribbon of potholes themselves.

So they've now traded holes in the road for holes in their checkbooks which might sound like they have holes in their heads But the whole story is that they've made the stretch safer for themselves, their children, their property, and anyone who comes driving by

Now, is such a samaritan action tax deductible, or is a portion of their previously paid taxes refundable?

Ooops!

It was bound to happen sooner or later, and on Thursday night it did - at the Manheim Fair A young man, who had the champion market lamb was given a trophy which was inscribed with words referring to that specific honor But on top of the shiny award was the figure of a hog

Udder candidate

Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative, Inc. has come up with the perfect solution of who to vote for if you can't make up your mind between one candidate or the next. You simply vote for the udder candidate.

Short-lived joy

A Lancaster County agricultural office had a thrilling experience this Summer. A check arrived in the mail for $1000. And who couldn't use that! The joy was short-lived, however, as it was discovered later that the gift was intended for another agency.

"Peace Road" the sign says, but "Pothole Path" might be a more appropriate name. It's a stretch of road near Leola in Lancaster County which is in bad need of repair. After numerous failures to get something done by their local road crew, residents in the area took up a collection and began patching the road themselves. Much of the road is now repaired, but spots like this are still common. Officials claim the road isn't used much, but residents say different. Whatever the case, there's certainly no room for cars to pass each other at spots like the one pictured above.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In reply to a letter written to you in the Lancaster Farming by Walter B. Loncosky, Danville, Pa., I offer the following thought:

Jimmy Carter just turned 50 on October 2, 1976. I wonder why so many farmers think of him as one of them, since he graduated from high school, attended Georgia Tech for four years, and then went on to gain a commission at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. He spent four years at Annapolis, after which he worked under Admiral Rickover until 1953. Then he supposedly went home to care for the family business, while simultaneously finding enough time to pick up a Master's Degree in nuclear physics at Syracuse. (He called himself a scientist in a recent TV spot).

In addition, Jimmy Carter during that time wrote a book, served in the Georgia Senate for four years, and then became governor. For the past two years he has been campaigning solidly for the Presidency. I'm wondering when Mr. Carter had time to be a farmer!

My husband is a farmer who works long hours to make a decent living. If Jimmy Carter is a true farmer, and he has done all the things listed above, exactly when did he ever devote time to farming?

I really feel farmers are misguided if they think Jimmy Carter is one of them.

Sincerely,
Mary Catherine Hoover

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOW MUCH ARE YOU WORTH?

Lesson for October 10 1976

Background Scripture
Romans 5:1-21
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 53.

"If you're a good girl ..."

Many children grow into youth and adulthood with this proposition planted firmly in mind If we are good, good things will happen to us and people will love us The corrolary belief, of course, is that if we are not "good," then "bad" things will happen to us and people will not love us.

While yet sinners

Of course it is often true that our lives are shaped for both good and evil by our morality and that righteousness and unrighteousness have their own rewards. It is also true that we are more likely to be accepted, liked, and loved when we are acceptable, likable, and lovable.

At the same time, however, the truism, "If you're good..." has some limitations and unfortunate consequences. As parents, for example, we often convey to our children the idea that our love is conditional upon their behaviour, that we will not love them - or at least as much - when they have done something wrong or failed in some way.

duct our friendships on this level: we will like people or even love them so long as their conduct meets our approval. In a sense our friendship is earned by their friendly behaviour towards us, and vice versa.

Little wonder then that people have a hard time understanding the love of God and the demands it makes upon us. Many people have difficulty in believing that God really loves them because they do not see themselves as worthy of his love. In this they are both right and wrong: right in that they are not worthy of his love (this, as Paul discovered, is why legalism fails), but wrong in that they assume that God's love is conditional on our moral worth!

Christ died for us

Paul puts it simply, saying that while "one will hardly die for a righteous man..." nevertheless, "God shows his love for us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us" (Romans 5:7,8).

God did not wait for us to become more righteous, let alone worthy, but he made the great sacrifice of his Son Jesus even while we were most unrighteous. Man's salvation, his restored relationship with God, his reconciliation is attributable, not to his own worth, but God's. It is a gift-grace-and the only "good" thing a person can do is to accept that gift by a trusting faith.

Yes, God wants us to be good, to live up to the best he has placed within us, but his love is not conditional upon that. He loves us as we are so that we may become better than we are.

So, how much are you worth in God's sight?

The cross is the symbol of his eternal answer to that question.

TO CHECK SWINE EXPANSION The time has come when swine producers should take a hard look at the future of their industry For the past year or more hogs have enjoyed a very high place in the market price structure As a result of these favorable prices, many new producers have entered the business and others have expanded Market prices have been on the skids for the past month and indications point to the possibility of a surplus of pork in the very near future and depressed prices Further expansion will make the hog business more unprofitable, and some producers will have to get out of the business again Efficient production is again very important toward the goal of trying to avoid large surplus of pork products

TO MAKE HIGH MOISTURE CORN The practice of harvesting field corn in the high moisture range is getting more common This refers to the shelling or picking of corn in the 25 to 30 per cent range for shelled corn, and 30 to 35 per cent for ground ear corn This corn can be put into tower silos that are in good condition and preserved for livestock and dairy feeding Corn has been drying rather slowly this fall allowing more time to get the crop harvested Moisture testers are needed to check the moisture of the kernel and the cob Moisture content above or below these ranges will mean darker, stronger-odored corn to feed

TO SECURE NEW FARM TRUCK REGISTRATION A new Farm Truck License is now available to Pennsylvania farmers producing edible products This truck registration is to cost $25 00 per year, but the owner cannot drive more than a radius of 25 miles from the farm base The truck must meet all other vehicle inspection requirements Applications to the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation must be made on or before October 31, 1976 Those qualifying for this special "farm truck" license must produce edible products and include farmers, agriculturists, and orchardists Florists and nurserymen do not qualify

TO PREPARE A WILL This is not a pleasant thought but a chore that everyone owning anything should have done This is especially true of persons with families that own real estate, investments, and other financial holdings Usually, the family attorney is secured to write the will at the direction of members of the family Without a will, state laws go into effect and dependents do not benefit as well In the case of parents, both the man and wife should have a will, or a joint document, that will state the distribution of all holdings We have an Extension Leaflet at our Extension Office that will assist in the merits and the making of a will We urge everyone to make one at their earliest convenience

DRY COWS — WHY BOTHER?

The fifth in a series of six articles of interest to you, the farmer.
Articles one through four available on request. Call 717-394-3047 or 717-626-1164

Dry cows for many years have been neglected on a lot of farms throughout the country. Many people just put their dry cows in the back pen or back pasture and forget them until they drop their calf. Then they bring them into the barn, start feeding them chop, and wonder why they don't milk. Yes, a dry cow program is very important to a dairyman. Even though a cow is only dry 6-8 weeks and is producing a calf that you hope is strong and healthy when it hits the ground. Most of the calf is made in the last two months of the cows pregnancy or in other words during her dry period. It takes a high level of calcium and phosphorus to build bones, protein to grow hair, and also vitamins and trace minerals to develop the calf properly. To get this job done right you must have a balanced feeding program for the dry cows.

From past experience AGRI-KING has learned that the most critical time for a dairy cow is the last three weeks of her dry period and the first three weeks of her lactation. So, during this time it is especially important to see that she is fed a balanced ration.

If a dry cow feed is made the AGRI-KING way and the cow only eats half of what she should, she is not on the AGRI-KING dry cow feeding program. It is not only important to get a balanced ration, it is also important to make it palatable so she will eat it. Sometimes this is hard to do.

If a farmer can get a cow to drop her calf and go to peak production without problems, he has a cow that will probably produce her inherited production. It is not always easy for a farmer to feed his dry cows right; but we feel that if he understands why it is necessary to take the little extra attention it takes to do it right, most good farmers will do so. We're convinced that if you take good care of your dry cows, you will have a lot less trouble with milk fever and breeding problems.

There's only one way to do this

TEST YOUR FEEDS AND LET AGRI-KING BALANCE YOUR TOTAL FEEDING PROGRAM INCLUDING THE DRY COW FEED.

Commission tours Md. counties

ANNAPOLIS, Md - The Maryland Agricultural Commission will tour the dairy and fruit heartland of Maryland October 14 and cap the day with a public meeting to discuss agricultural concerns with farmers from Washington, Frederick, and Carroll counties

The tour as outlined by commission chairman William Kleinwachter is as follows: leave Maryland Artificial Breeders Co-op (Sire Power) at 8 a.m.; visit Way of Truth Industries, Hagerstown, dairy operation; visit W.D. Bromley & Son fruit operation near Smithsburg; visit Ross Smith, Jr. turkey production operation at Graceham; and visit the Harold Long dairy farm near Thurmont.

The tour will be completed by an inspection of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Co-op's operations in the early afternoon followed by a business meeting session of the commission.

At 7:30 p.m. the commission will then host an open public meeting at the Holiday Inn, on Patrick St., Frederick. All farmers and those connected with agricultural businesses are invited to attend the meeting and will be given the opportunity to ask questions concerning commission business, the Maryland Department of Agriculture, or just to bring to attention any agricultural concerns they may have

The commission is a 17-member citizens advisory group whose members are appointed by the Governor for three-year terms They represent all major commodity production groups in the state.

Growing pains cited

WASHINGTON, D C - People in rural communities have been accustomed to thinking about problems that come with populaton decline Now they need to think about problems that can come with population growth, according to the U S Department of Agriculture

The new population trend in this country is one of growth in rural areas For the first time this century except for the Depression years, the population of nonmetropolitan counties is growing faster than the metropolitan population. (Nonmetro counties are ones with no city as large as 50,000 population.) More rural residents are choosing to stay in their home area instead of moving to the cities, many rural migrants of the past are returning home, and more city natives are moving to rural areas

According to USDA, most rural communities want to get in on the new population growth. Growth is a sign of a community's economic vitality and is usually a source of community pride.

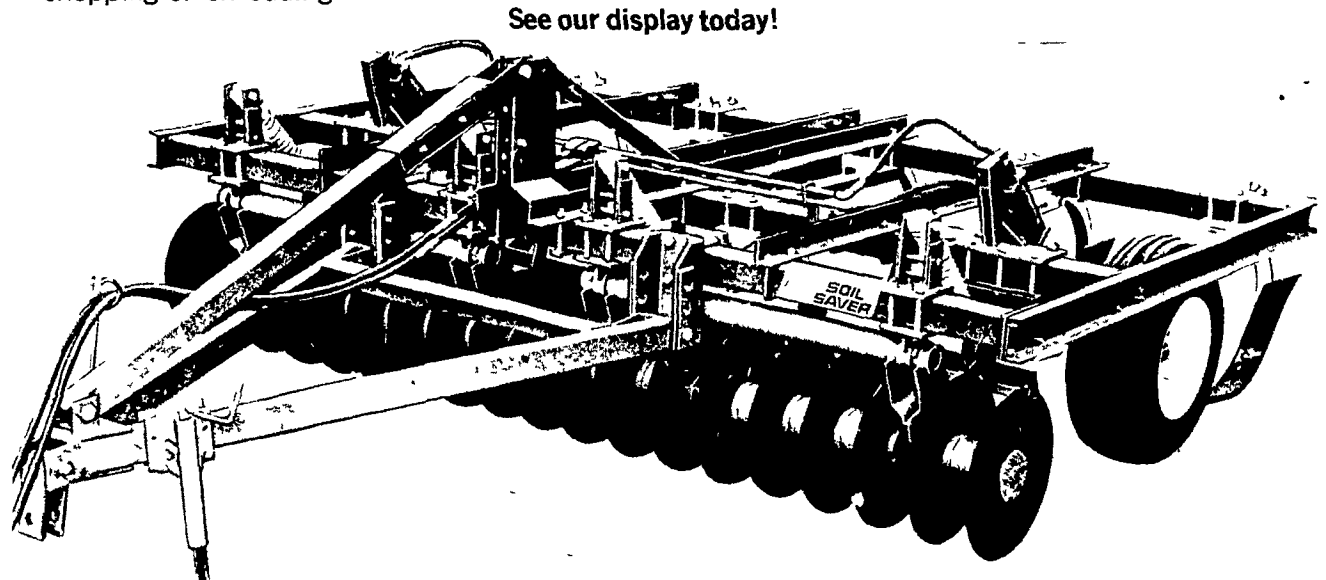
Glencoe® MODEL SS "SOIL SAVER"

A NEW TWIST TO TILLAGE! A totally new and different approach to soil management! The Glencoe "SOIL SAVER" creates a non-compacted, "ridged" field that just naturally protects against erosion by wind and water! Instead of simply turning over the soil and leaving it bared to the elements,the "SOIL SAVER" opens up the land down deep to catch and hold available moisture. — Controls runoff, holds and stores rainwater for thirsty crops — soil surface is left open and blended with crop residues that protect precious topsoil! Cutting "slicers" cut up heavy stalks, leaves and root crowns and leave the soil ready to be turned under by the helical blades following. Designed so you can work your stubble immediately after harvest, generally without chopping or shredding.

See our display today!



The new twist to tillage.

Manheim Fair bigger and better than ever

By JOANNE SPAHR

MANHEIM, Pa - They say curiosity killed the cat, but it surely didn't kill the Manheim Farm Show held last Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday Instead, its effects were beneficial for this agricultural Fair "It was so crowded in here on opening night that you couldn't even see the exhibits right," commented one person manning a display in the new commercial building erected on Adele Avenue especially for this event

Built to house the exhibits from what used to be called the Spahr building and also those in an exhibit tent, the new structure was a source of curiosity for many Fair goers.

"I think the exhibits are nicer this year because of all the room," noted Steve Snavely, who was working at the Sportsmen's Association display.

This sentiment was echoed by many passersby, also. After years of crowded conditions in the former buildings, the spaciousness was welcomed.

Luke Bruckhart first vice president of the Fair Association, noted that the entries were up this year compared with other years.

"We had 960 people entering," he noted, "And I haven't even made an accurate count of the total exhibits."

The new building was not the only change in the Farm Show, however. The whole location was shifted to form an "L" shape near the High School, with the food stands and rides along Adele Avenue. The implement exhibits, however, were located on the football field quite a distance from the agricultural tents.

"There is talk of lighting the baseball field (beside Adele Avenue) until another year, and if that happens we might shift things around and bring the implements there," said Bruckhart. "Then we wouldn't be quite so scattered."

There are several other changes which are on the possibility list for next year 'We found that our biggest problem right now is with traffic," said Mark Nestleroth, Manheim R5, the president of the Fair Association "We really have a lot of conjestion aound the agriculture area " Despite the new diagonal parking created only about two weeks ago along Adele Avenue, and the use of both the pool and High School parking lots, a "bottleneck" was nevertheless created

"Part of the parking problem was that people didn't use all of the facilities available," commented Bruckhart. "Much of the west side of the pool wasn't utilized."

Until next year, there are hopes of building some sort of drive around the building. This will require other rearranging and changing, so the hopes are just tentative at present. "We still have a few bugs to iron out," said Bruckhart. On the whole, however, both Nestleroth and Bruckhart were pleased with the turnout this year. Livestock, implement, and commercial displays all increased and the crowd turnout was one of the best in years.

"I think it's the biggest I've ever seen" commented Bruckhart.

Nestleroth also likes the new location. "I think the atmosphere is better - you have the ag exhibits and beside them is the covered bridge and the woods, plus there is all the space for the rides," he noted.

Bruckhart capped it all by saying, "Even with the bugs, I'd say it was a real good year."

The agriculture exhibits of the Manheim Fair moved to a location beside the high school this year. Seen from a distance are the new commercial building and livestock tents clustered around it.

What's New

NEW WHITE TRACTORS

White Farm Equipment Company announced recently it will add two new technologically advanced, high-horsepower tractors to its "Field Boss', product line

Powered by 135 pto and 155 pto horsepower turbocharged diesel engines, the new units bring to 10 the number of Field Boss tractors introduced since White began its major tractor improvement program five years ago

White Farm Equipment now offers a complete line of Field Boss tractors, ranging in size from 180 pto horsepower to 50 horsepower in articulated, four-wheel-drive, two-wheel-drive, row crop and wheatland axle combinations.

Heavy emphasis has been placed on engineering and designing the new units for the nation's large acreage farmers.

Powering the new tractors are high-performance engines, with a special fuel injection system for smooth and quiet operation

A standard feature, White's famous "Over-Under Hydraul-Shift" transmission provides 18 forward speeds and on-the-go shifting in each of six gears to match tractor power and speed to changing conditions without the use of the clutch.

All-new inboard planetary reduction gears spread torque loads and reduce drive train strain to ensure smooth and positive power delivery. Other special features of the new White Field Bosses include dash-mounted differential lock control for extra pull in slippery ground, enlarged rear axles, heavy-duty 6,400 pound lift capacity three-point hitch and hydraulic actuated wet disc brakes.

In the operator's compartment, White has made substantial changes. A high-visibility, easy entry cab with dash-mounted throttle and power shift control; a full complement of dash-mounted gauges, warning lights and buzzers to monitor tractor functions; all-new, seatside color-coded control console; and a new deluze seat are the major highlights.

The entire compartment is sealed and vibration-damped for optimum operator comfort during long field hours.

Optional is a total cab environment air conditioning package for efficient temperature control with improved circulation and quiet operation.

Debates rebroadcast

HERSHEY, Pa. The remaining two Ford-Carter presidential debates and the debate between vice-presidential candidates Robert Dole and Walter Mondale will be rebroadcast via tape delay by WITF-TV, Channel 33, on the Saturday evening following each debate. The delayed broadcasts, which provide an alternate time for South Central Pennsylvania viewers to watch the debates, will be prepared especially for the hearing-impaired through the use of either super-imposed captions or sign-language.

The second debate between President Ford and Jimmy Carter will be rebroadcast on Saturday, October 9, at 8:00 p.m., with captions. The third presidential debate will be rebroadcast on Saturday, October 23, at 8:00 p.m., with sign-language. The rebroadcast of the vice-presidential debate is scheduled for Saturday, October 16, at 8:30 p.m., with captions.

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS — so different, it's patented

Your cattle will like Nutrena Controlled Release CLS and you'll like the benefits behind this new development in liquid supplements. The patented process controls the release of protein-building ammonia nitrogen in the rumen compared with a conventional urea-based liquid supplement. This improves the feeding efficiency of the urea. And, the slow-down means an extra margin of safety from urea toxicity—that's important when self-feeding liquid supplement.

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS liquid supplement—a product of Cargill research. It's great for dairy herds as well as beef cattle on range, pasture, stalks, stubble or in the feedlot.

Clouds are weather's 'signature'

By DIETER KRIEG

EDITOR'S NOTE: The weather is one of the most awesome and vital forces known to man. This is the ninth article in a continuing series of stories designed to familiarize readers with the environment.

If you think weather forecasting is tough now, how would you like to do it without clouds? Clouds are often the tell-tale sign of what's to come, and on radar screens and photographs they even offer "signatures" to professional meteorologists.

Whether it's an amateur "weatherman" such as the farmer, or the kind who's a scientist, they all need clouds to know what's going on. Granted, they'd still have a few signs to go by, but clouds are the most obvious. Without them we'd be just about lost.

Take the evening or morning skies, for example. Many times a farmer can tell what might be in store the next day by observing how the sky looks. What he sees is actually the reflection of light in particles of water vapor, dust, and other minute debris - clouds. If it weren't for clouds, he would see nothing because air - and the atmosphere - are invisible.

"Understanding clouds - how, why, when, and where they form, and what shape they take - is an important part of understanding the atmosphere," states a source at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) "Whether the vantage point is a satellite or radar or the trained eye of an observer, the emphasis is on using present knowledge of clouds to provide vital weather services, and on developing new knowledge of clouds as a part of an effort to improve our comprehension of the air ocean in which we live," NOAA spokesmen point out

Clouds mark the circulation patterns within our atmosphere - especially the troposphere or lower levels - and they therefore allow us to see what has happened and what could happen With the aid of satellites far out in space, and radar on the ground, in the air, and out at sea, cloud patterns can be studied to determine the birth of storms

Some types of storms and other meteorological phenomena actually have what is called a "signature " Once weather scientists detect it, they can focus their instruments on the situation and go to work in issuing precise forecasts and warnings What makes it all possible, again, is the fact that clouds are an accumulation of particles large enough to be picked up by such electronic devices as radar, and cameras circling the globe

Clouds - they make a lot possible in observing, understanding, and forecasting weather

Farm prices compared

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The Index of Prices Received by Farmers declined one point during the month ended Sept. 15, USDA reported last week. Though prices were higher for soybeans, cotton and milk, these gains were more than offset by lower prices for cattle, hogs, potatoes, oranges and wheat.

At $6.65 per bushel, soybeans were up 58 cents from a month earlier, $1.33 per bushel above a year ago and the over-all-oil-bearing crops index was up nine per cent from August, 21 per cent above a year earlier. All milk sold to plants moved up 10 cents per hundredweight to $9.85. A year ago, it stood at $9.25 per cwt. The dairy products index was up ½ of one per cent from a month earlier, 6½ per cent above a year ago.

Cattle prices were off 40 cents to average $32.40 per cwt., were down $2.90 from Aug. a year ago, they were bringing $58.60. The meat animal index was down three per cent from Aug., 15 per cent below a year earlier. Potato prices declined 92 cents to $3.24 per cwt. A year ago, they were at $4.04. The over-all potato-dry bean index was off 18 per cent from Aug., 28 per cent below a year ago.

At $2.88 per bushel, wheat was down nine cents from Aug., $1.23 below a year ago. The over-all food grain index was down three per cent from a month earlier, 30 per cent below Sept. 1975.

At 186, the over-all Prices Received index was ½ of one per cent (1 point) below Aug., seven per cent (13 points) below a year earlier. This marked the third straight month it has declined.

The Prices Paid index remained unchanged at 195 and was five per cent (9 points) above a year earlier. The ratio of Prices Received to Prices Paid declined one point to 95. A year ago, it was 107.

Under the old 1910-14 formula, Prices Received declined two points to 466. A year ago, it was 497. Prices Paid declined one point to 662. A year ago, it was at 631. And, the parity ration declined one point to 70 - its lowest point since Dec. 1971. A year ago it stood at 79.

SPECIAL FEED TEST TO IM-PRUV-ALL LIVESTOCK RATIONS

High quality livestock feeds are expensive to grow, harvest, store and feed. Purchased feeds are generally even more expensive. Therefore, it is most important to obtain maximum feeding value from these feeds. This can only be accomplished by knowing their nutritive values.

The Special Feed Test to Im-Pruv-All Livestock Rations scientifically measures these nutritive values. Protein, fat, fiber, moisture, total ash, nitrogen free extract, carotene, and nitrate contents are measured on each feed. When a feed has a nitrate content, the test will recommend the proper restriction of such a feed in the ration. This Special Feed Test also reveals the calculated values of total digestible nutrients, energy and digestible protein. Special considerations of fermentation and oxidation are made in Fermented Feeds. These values are totaled and a comparison is made on each feed tested to standard feed values. Enclosed with the test results are forms aiding the livestock feeder in calculating how best to utilize the tested feeds in his livestock rations. Practical methods of growing, harvesting and storing feeds can be evaluated through this feed test.

This Feed Test has been refined over a 8 year period. Thousands of feed samples were evaluated to develop the information supplied on this feed test. Livestock feeds have continually requested a feed testing program that supplied them with the information to understand the feed test results as well as provide them with the tools to utilize livestock feeds to their best advantage.

The livestock feeder who properly utilizes feed test information CAN:

1. Know the actual nutritional value of his feeds.
2. Determine if he wants to feed any or all feeds.
3. Calculate how best to feed these feeds.
4. Properly restrict feeds containing nitrate.
5. Feed a balanced ration.
6. Evaluate and compare different methods of harvesting and storing his feeds.
7. Evaluate his total soil fertility program which affects nutrient value of his feeds.
8. Determine T D N production per acre of various crops.
9. Plan his feed production program.
10. Avoid or solve feeding problems.

The Special Feed Test to Im-Pruv-All Livestock Rations gives our customers the knowledge and the tools to plan, evaluate, and utilize their feeds more profitably.

Elizabeth, Barbara, and Chris Herr display some of their prize-winning animals at the Manheim Fair. The trio captured most of the first places — as they have done at several other fairs in the area during the last few years. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, Narvon.

Manheim sheep results posted

MANHEIM - The children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, Narvon R2, came away with most of the trophies in the sheep show here this week. Taking the senior showmanship and fitting titles was Elizabeth Herr. Steve Strauss from the Cloister FFA Chapter followed in second place.

Christopher Herr was first in Suffolk pen of lambs, and Dorset ewe lambs, and Cheviot lightweight market lambs. To top it off, he had the grand champion market lambs.

Barbara Herr took first places in Cheviot heavyweights, Dorset heavyweights, Dorset pen of lambs, Dorset ewe lamb, and Dorset lightweights. Her big prize was grand champion pen of market lambs.

In addition to her showmanship and fitting titles, Elizabeth Herr also won blue ribbons with her heavyweight Hampshire market lambs, and she had the reserve grand champion market lamb.

Another Herr girl, Margaret, was honored as the grand champion for showing and fitting in the junior category. In addition, she took first place with her Dorset ram lamb.

Following Christopher Herr in the Suffolk pen of lambs competition were Tina Donaugh, second; and Dean Ziegler, third. Following him in the Dorset ewe lamb contest were Steve and Richard Strauss. In the Cheviot lightweight market lamb contest, Margaret Herr and Marcia Rohrer followed in that order. Miss Rohrer also took a first place in the Cheviot ewe lamb contest.

In the Dorset ewe lamb category, Barbara Herr was followed by Robert Herr, Elizabeth Herr, Margaret Herr, and Robert Strauss. For Dorset lightweights, Barbara led the way, followed by Margaret, the Strauss Brothers and Charles Long.

The reserve grand champion pen of market lambs was won by Elizabeth Herr, who also exhibited the first-place Hampshire heavyweight. Robert Strauss and Allen Ackley placed second and third, respectively, in the latter event.

Grain scrutinized

NEW YORK, N.Y. - A proposal to establish U.S. grade standards for triticale, a grain that combines characteristics of wheat and rye, has been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Triticale, not now widely produced in the United States, has some potential as a commercial crop, grain marketing specialists in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service said in announcing the proposed new standards. Currently, with about 200,000 acres in production, triticale is used mainly for animal forage, in the production of malt for making beer, and as a base for flour used in breakfast foods, baked goods, and pasta. The crop was first grown commercially in the United States in 1970.

Under the proposed new standards, which were developed in cooperation with trade representatives and academic experts on grain, samples of triticale taken or submitted for official inspection would be graded U.S. No. 1,2,3,4, or U.S. Sample grade. The grade-determining factors, similar to those already used for wheat and rye, would include minimum test weight per bushel; amount of heat-damaged kernels; amount of kernels damaged in any way; amount of foreign material other than wheat and rye; amount of foreign material including wheat and rye; amount of shrunken and broken kernels; and total defects.

Models come 12 or 24 feet wide (24-foot model shown here), in lengths of 32 or 50 feet. All 24-foot wide buildings have an entry door in each end. See chart on back of this sheet for more specifications.

Each ventilation fan is located inside a plenum chamber, to pull air uniformly from pit area to the outside. Building remains virtually odor-free, because odor-laden air from the pit area does not enter living area of the animals.

Built-in ventilation system keeps building dry and provides fresh air for animal health. Unique air flow system pulls air in at roof ridge line, circulates it over the top of the animals, through the pit, and out. Note that design of roof system eliminates the need for any massive bulkheads that could restrict air flow.

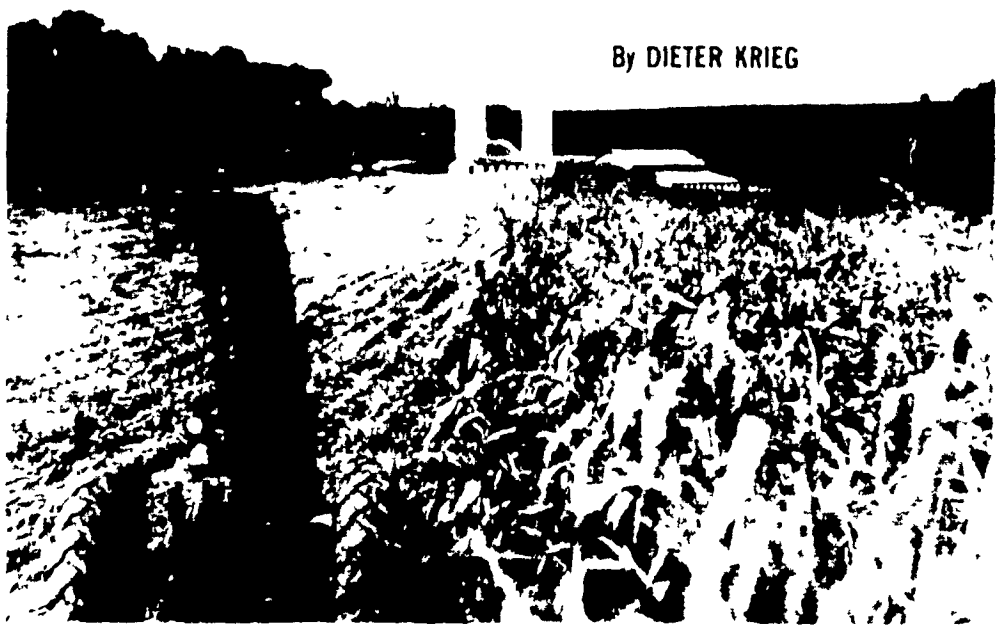
LIFE on the farm

By DIETER KRIEG



Taking a five-gallon gas can and having it go through an eight inch pipe might seem like an impossible task, but it isn't Neither does it require magic I know, because our hired man did it once Before going through the pipe, the can measured about 11 inches in diameter and it was filled with gas Coming out at the other end it was a mass of tin ribbons and completely empty Quite a trick

Requesting to be fired, and visibly upset with the "trick," our hired man sincerely believed he had done something very terrible

I was in the barn getting ready for the afternoon milking when he came dashing through the door, his head shaking back and forth in disbelief over what hhad happened His first words came out all at once as a plea for punishment, an apology, and a description of what had occurred

We both grabbed forks and headed up the silo Marvin, our hired man, was just about sick - and he was punishing himself. About all that was left to do, besides throw silage out of the silo and pick up pieces of metal, was for me to laugh and joke about it Too bad regular gas was in the can, some high test might have done the cows some good!

Seriously, what had happened wasn't really funny and some sad consequences could have resulted from it, but this was not time to be pre-occupied with those kind of thoughts.

Marvin went to work feverishly, still very much stunned by it all, and he never stopped apologizing and explaining As he recalled the event, he had taken a five-gallon gasoline can with him while on his way out to the field to pick up the last load of silage On his way back, he stopped to fill it and then placed it on the discharge belt to take down to the tractor hitched to the blower. He and the rest of us had done it many times before Only this time it was forgotten about when unloading began

The first thing coming out of the wagon was the filled can It was instantly torn to shreds by the howling blower Small wonder the tips of the blades were travelling at a speed of about 125 feet per second, or 85 miles per hour

Pieces of metal and five gallons of gasoline were blasted up the pipe and onto the chopped corn Our job now was to remove all of the debris and then return to our more regular tasks as usual Such is life on the farm policies and that farmers would continue to make their own decisions "

Knebel also noted that President Ford has admitted that the grain embargo of last year was a mistake and that a pledge has been made not to impose another one He attacked Carter for proposing a trade policy with the Soviet Union which in effect would do business at whatever times the Soviets are ready. "This," said Knebel, "would cause a stop-and-go trade situation such as you have never seen before "

"This is no time to jimmy around with your farm policy," he concluded

Rhubarb is the stalk or stem of plants and its leaves and roots contain oxalic acid which can be poisonous

The best radishes are medium sized about 3/4 to 1 1/8 inches in diameter. Large ones may have pithy centers.

Milk prices announced

AIRVILLE, Pa - A September Class II price of $8 60 per hundredweight for milk was announced here on Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Delta and Central York locals, Inter-State Milk Producers, Inc

The Class I prices for October and November were also publicized at the meeting, which was held at the Airville Community Fire Hall. For October the Class I price is to be $11.83, while next month it drops to $11.30 per hundredweight for milk containing 3.5 per cent butterfat

Noting that USDA just recently experienced a change in leadership, and that support prices were raised just a week ago, Inter-State officials are hoping for continued quarterly reviews of prices Confidence was expressed that blend prices for milk would remain above $10 per hundredweight for the next six to 12 months

A prime topic of the evening's program centered on quality control since Inter-State and other cooperatives are continuing to experience occasional difficulties with producers who fail to comply with regulations. Every truckload of milk is currently being tested for the presence of antibiotics The other "serious situation" described was adding water to milk Product liability is at stake on both counts, and producers must be held accountable, the farmers were told It was noted that the USPH rating of 90 or better must be maintained, but could be lost as a result of carelessness.

Described as a cooperative which is financially very sound, Inter-State just recently purchased the Quality Control Laboratory next to its own headquarters in Southampton, Pa , and is strongly considering the idea of building a manufacturing plant in the Carlisle area of Central Pennsylvania The decision is feasible due to dealers not wanting to take on any more milk

In line with the demand for milk, dairymen were urged to be aware of the importance of advertising and promotion. A check-off referendum deadline passed a week ago.

Truck owners called

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania truck licenses expire on Oct. 31 and a new law (Act 149, as approved December 16, 1975) makes available a different kind of license.

Cost of the new kind of tag is $25 per year. But trucks registered in this program cannot be operated more than a radius of 25 miles away from the farm base. Furthermore, such a registered truck must meet the same inspection requirements as any other similar vehicle.

If you have a non-registered farm truck and wish to apply for the new license, one must pay the sales tax in order to acquire a title.

Additional Forms (Number MV-77) may be secured at any Partol Station or by writing: The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, Transportation and Safety Building, Harrisburg, PA 17123.

Among the bulls seen by dairymen visiting ABS' headquarters in Wisconsin was this Arlinda Chief son out of a Bootmaker daughter. He was bred in Lancaster County by Jim High. Looking him over, left to right, are Maurice Stump, A.I. representative; Dan Rush, ABS district manager; Paul Herr, A.I. representative; Bob Greider, A.I. representative; and Elvin Hess, GMS evaluator.

Clyde Peters, Manheim R6, is the recipient of the FFA chain calf this year. He received the eight week old calf at the Manheim Fair on Thursday evening. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Peters, Clyde is a sophomore at Manheim Central High School. The FFA chain calf program has been going on for about 20 years, with animals having been donated over the past years by the Lions Club, Rotary Club, Manheim FFA Chapter, and Robert Ginder of Elizabethtown. As the recipient of the calf, Clyde must show the animal at the Manheim and Kutztown fairs. Also, he is required to give the animal's first heifer calf to the Manheim FFA Chapter, so that the program may perpetuate itself. The 15 year old youth says he wants to become a dairy farmer in the Lancaster County area.

Tree planting mechanized

A collection of good ideas about mechanical fruit tree planters has been brought together in one machine which, with a tractor and three people, has planted 500 trees per hour in early tests. The prevailing planting method takes five people all day to plant 500 trees.

Agricultural engineer Bernard R. Tennes, Michagan State University, tested the pilot machine in seven commercial orchards in southwestern Michigan this summer.

"These preliminary trials were very encouraging," Tennes said. "In one case we planted 10 acres of tart cherry trees in two hours and 10 minutes.

"We took ideas from four different homemade tree planters already in use by fruit growers. Some of the existing machines did portions of the planting job well but didn't perform well overall. By putting the best parts of all the machines together and improving them a bit we now have a machine that does the entire job," he said.

The pilot machine opens a trench in either sod or cultivated ground, the tree is placed, then the unit closes the trench and compacts the soil around the tree. Only the placing of the tree is done by hand.

"Planting can be done at least eight times faster by this machine," Dr. Tennes said. "And the growers agree that the planter does a better job than could be done by hand planting. Of course we are still making improvements and adjustments."

Plant pathologist Clyde L. Burton, will do follow-up evaluation of the trees every six months to check how the trees compare with others planted by conventional methods.

Tennes believes that the tree planter may have other limited uses such as installation of trickle irrigation and drainage lines.

Development of a mechanical planter is of importance now because of the massive replanting job facing Michigan fruit growers due to widespread damage caused by last winter's ice storm.

KERB® GIVES TOP CONTROL OF QUACKGRASS AND CHICKWEED ALONG WITH OTHER GRASSES AND WEEDS IN ALFALFA

Quackgrass, and other perennial and annual grasses like bluegrass, ryegrass, cheatgrass, and wild oats, along with weeds like chickweed and others need no longer lower the quality of your alfalfa hay. A fall or winter application of KERB herbicide from Rohm and Haas Company controls the 15 most common grasses and weeds that rob your forage crop of water and nutrients and deprive it of growing room. Stands can stay productive and profitable longer and produce higher protein, more digestible hay for feeding to dairy or beef animals.

Hay buyers, sellers, and those who feed their own, all know the dollar value of the superior quality hay, which weed control can help produce.

Enrollment opens

Effective last week farmers may now enroll in the 1977 Agriculture Conservation Program.

Farmers who wish to start conservation practices during the fall months may be approved for cost-sharing by the County ASC Committee now under the 1977 program, the chairman stated. However, payment for 1977 practices will be delayed until October of 1977. This provision is especially helpful to those farmers who were denied cost-sharing in the 1976 Agriculture Conservation Program due to lack of sufficient conservation funds by ASCS.

Conservation practices approved in early October will be paid at 1976 ACP rates of cost-sharing, the chairman added. During October, the County ACP development group will meet and develop 1977 practices, cost-share rates, and other provisions applicable to the 1977 ACP. Details of the new program will be announced shortly.

Farmers are encouraged to determine their conservation practice priorities for 1977 and request cost-sharing at their county ASCS office.

Eligibility for participation in all programs administered by ASCS is established under law without regard to race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

Colored breeds shown

MANHEIM - Grand champion banners for colored breeds at the Manheim Fair, held here this week, were won by Colleen Findley, Jerseys; Kerry Boyd, Brown Swiss; and Doreen Martin, Ayrshires.

In the Jersey show it was a one family affair with Colleen Findley checking in with first places for 2-year olds, 4-year olds, and best udder. Kenneth Findley walked away with top honors for aged cow, best three females, dairy herd, intermediate calf, produce of dam, and dam and daughter pair. JoAnne Findley also got into the winning act by winning the blue cloth for 3-year olds and junior calf.

Kerry Boyd swept the Brown Swiss show by winning every class.

Aside from her grand champion in the Ayrshire show, Doreen Martin also had the top 2-year old. Dennis Martin walked off with the reserve grand champion banner and also took top honors for dam and daughter pair, junior calf, senior yearling, and best udder. Cherry Kupp took first place in the junior yearling event.

Cut drying costs and boost income with better standing, faster drying, higher yielding Pioneer® BRAND hybrids.

3780 Frequently 10 to 15 bushels better than other hybrids in its maturity. Must harvest to appreciate. Ease of combining, excellent standability and outstanding stress tolerance enable farmers to make the most net income from this hybrid.

3535 Yield and quality second to none in its maturity. Hard texture, high test weight, excellent roots and stalks and best "stay green" score of hybrids in the north-central Corn Belt. Good tolerance to barrenness under stress of heat, drought and high population.

3331 Plant type and maturity like 3334A. Has excellent seedling vigor. Stands strong. Excellent "stay green" qualities. Suited to thick or thin planting on any soil.

3184 Most exciting new hybrid in its maturity. This high yielding, excellent standing single cross has very good leaf disease tolerance, ideal plant height and ear placement. Try it in 1977.

Officers elected

BLUE BALL, Pa. - Officers for three locals of Inter-State Milk Producers were elected recently at the annual meeting, here. In addition, it was the occasion for the presentation of 25-year membership awards.

The dairymen recognized for membership were: John B. Ranck, Jr., New Holland R3; Clarence M. Hoover, New Holland R3; and Roy Benner, Gap R1. Congratulating the men for their membership awards, Inter-State's general manager, Dr James Honan, commented that it is that sort of dedication which has made Inter-State successful and such continued support is needed in the future as well.

New officers of the Gap local are as follows: Melvin J. Martin, president; Norman L. Hershey, vice president; J. Kenneth Hershey, secretary-treasurer; and Roy Brenner, Marvin E. Hershey, and Raymond Hoover, all delegates. The alternate delegates for the year are Menno L. Eby, Jr., Glenn D. Hershey, and Samuel M. Martin, Jr.

Heading the New-Holland-Leola local is Naaman Stoltzfus. Vice presidential duties go to David S. Fisher, while Walter C. Martin serves as secretary-treasurer. Serving as delegates are John R. Groff, Walter C. Martin, and Kenneth Skiles. Alternate delegates are David S. Fisher, Elam B. Stoltzfus and Naaman Stoltzfus.

Paradise local's officers are Jacob S. Dienner, president; Elvin W. Groff, vice president; and J. Richard Herr, secretary-treasurer. Lewis H. Denlinger and Melvin Eby are the delegates while Jacob Dienner and Elvin Groff stand by as alternates.

Extension agents place in national contest

NEWARK, Del - Three Delaware Cooperative Extension Service county agricultural agents have been named state winners in the 1976 Public Information Awards Program. The national contest is sponsored annually by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACCA) and Amchem Products, Inc. Two of the state winners went on to place second and third in their classes in regional competition.

William Henderson, Sussex county agricultural extension agent at the University of Delaware substation in Georgetown, was a state winner who also placed second in the Northeast region. His entry was a radio tape in the radio program class. The Northeast region consists of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont.

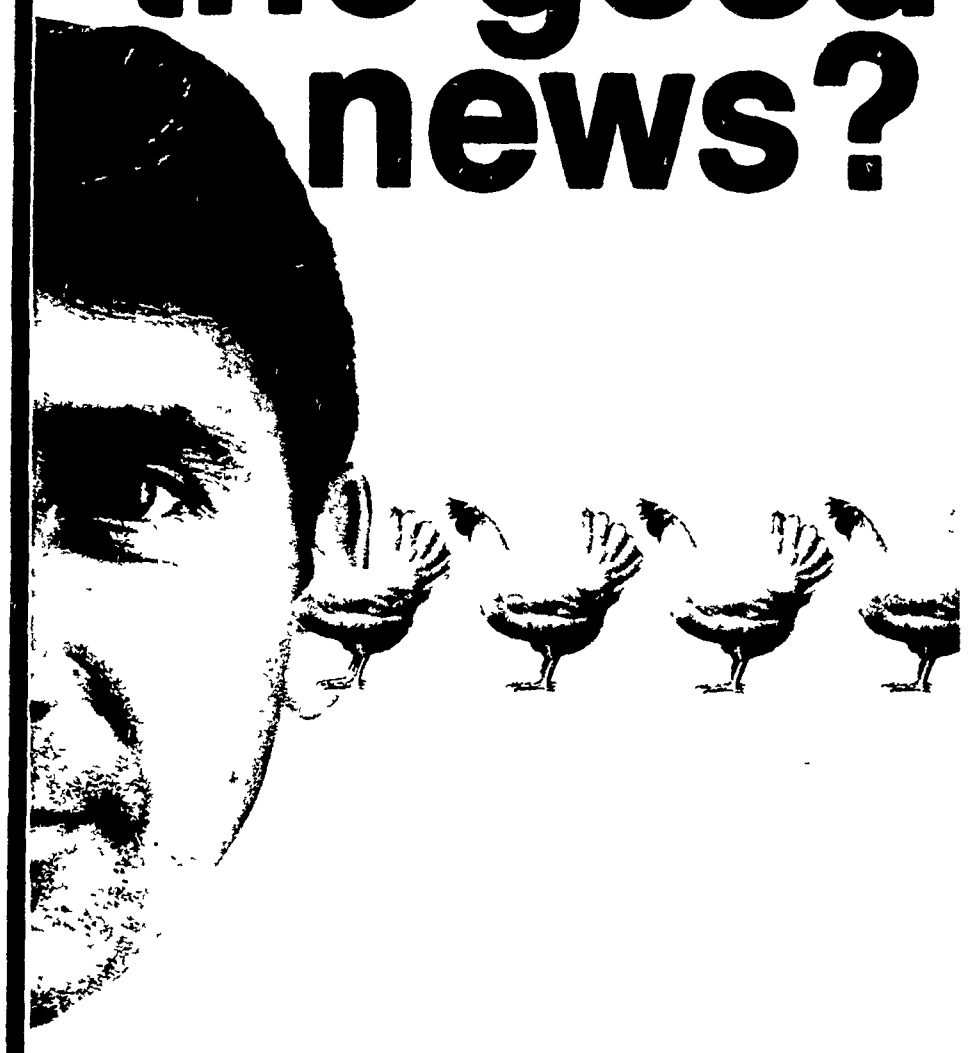
Heard the good news?



Between 1972 and 1973 an old friend of the commercial egg producer quietly slipped from view. Some folks called her the best feathered friend they ever had. They've missed the "old" B-300 sorely in the last few years. And they've told us so.

When the "old" B-300 – we call her the B-300V – retired from Random Sample Testing in 1973, she had an unmatched record of consistent performance. More importantly, she was a legend in her time...in the field...in your poultry house. She made businessmen out of thousands of poultrymen. She was the standard to which competitive strains compared their performance.

The B-300V was nearly perfect for the times. But we knew that times were changing. We knew that tomorrow's top layer had to have a stronger eggshell. We were committed to making the B-300V tomorrow's top layer. Tomorrow is here.

For the past 5 years, the B-300V has been in a concentrated program of eggshell improvement. It has paid off in results...without sacrificing the performance that made her your top choice in the "good old days."

Dust off your old records and take another look. Better yet, ask your Babcock distributor for his latest performance data on the B-300V.

Try a flock. Compare it to the best of your present stocks. We know you're going to be pleasantly surprised.

The businessman's bird is back...and better than ever before. The B-300V.

Something new is hatching at your Babcock distributor's...today!

Dairying in Germany

Sanitation not quite like ours

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first segment of a two-part story on farming in Germany. The information is based on observations made by the author while visiting the area in 1974.

By DIETER KRIEG

KLEMPAU, West Germany — Although most farms in Germany are as neat and well kept as the finest in this country, the absence of health regulations would definitely leave something to be desired, not only from the consumer's point of view, but also in the eyes of most American dairymen.

There are no health regulations for German milk producers, at least not as we know them. Inspections and obtaining clearance from authorities in order to put in a new pipeline, for example, are unheard of. Consequently, because of the variations in management, unavailability of space and other considerations, some farms are sloppy and possibly equipped with facilities which do an inferior job of milking or cleaning. Very few farms could qualify to the standards as we know them in this country; but this is not because of an unwillingness, but rather because the changes would be too drastic, and financially nearly impossible. Building space is hard to come by.

For the most part, it must be emphasized, that the German dairyman is conscientious and takes considerable pride in his work. The majority of farmers keep their premises looking as though they were miniature parks. This is easily understood when one realizes that all farmsteads in this part of Germany are located in the center of villages and towns. The old barns and homes blend in perfectly with other buildings in the area. Large shade trees, hedges, flowerbeds, fences, and gardens surround nearly every place. The settings are impressive not only for their immaculate appearance, but also because of their age. Many of these buildings are several hundred years old, and as sturdy and functional as ever.

With the farm buildings clustered within villages and towns, and farmlands radiating around them, the typical American farm scene is totally absent in Schleswig-Holstein, the section of Germany which lies between the North and Baltic Seas, just south of Denmark.

The terrain in this part of Europe is moderately hilly to completely flat. The weather is similar to that of the New England states. Moist air keeps summers cool and makes winters bitter cold, even though the actual temperature may still be well above freezing.

The growing season is too short for corn to mature, and silage corn is only now emerging as the king of crops. The main crops are small grains, especially rye, alfalfa, grasses, rape and swedish turnips. Soil types vary abruptly. For some areas sand is predominant, and for others it is clay. In either case the land is extremely well managed and in a high state of cultivation. Yields would compare with the very best anywhere in the United States.

A simple reason for this high degree of efficiency is the population density. Over 60 million people live in an area roughly twice the size of Pennsylvania. Efficiency and conservation are a must.

Old customs often create bothersome situations, and this is particularly true when it comes to farming in Schleswig-Holstein. It is nothing extraordinary to find a farm which has its land scattered and none or little of it joining. In many cases the farmer's acreage is spread out in parcels, some of it several miles away from the buildings. Therefore it is often necessary to drive cattle to pasture, haul equipment along highways frequently, and even haul corn silage from a trench silo in a field which is a mile or two from the barn. Some farmers are in favor of exchanging parcels of land so that each operator has his fields nearby, but unless everyone involved is willing to cooperate, it cannot be done. Some farms have been in the family for hundreds of years and members are reluctant to give up these ancient homes and lands.

Feed costs have risen sharply in recent years, forcing many farmers to turn to urea. No one I talked to was pleased with urea feeding or this country's policy of selling feed grains to Russia rather than allied western European nations. The latter was a concern which puzzled many farmers.

The prices for milk and feed have left many dairymen with an uncertain attitude about the future. This was a surprise to me because of talk in this country about our dairymen being partially replaced by those in the European Economic Community.

Pasture, corn silage, hay, and swedish turnips and concentrates comprise the feeding program. In the summer it is not uncommon to find a dairy herd on pasture 24 hours per day, including at milking time, since a number of farmers have constructed outdoor milking facilities. During the winter, cows are kept indoors all day, only going out for exercise if the barn happens to catch fire, which is not likely to happen, considering the strictly enforced regulations for fire prevention and other safety measures.

The typical dairy barn in Schleswig Holstein is 100 or more years old. They're characterized by their brick and "Fachwerk" construction, and steep roofs. A thatched roof is still considered to be the best, but they are disappearing because the profession has become nearly extinct.

Snow predicted

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A new technique for estimating as far as three months in advance how much of the Northern Hemisphere will be covered by snow in winter months has been developed by two environmental scientists with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

Donald R Wiesnet and Michael Matson, both with NOAA's National Environmental Satellite Service, have developed equations based on an analysis of nine years of snow-cover data gathered by NOAA's polar-orbiting and geostationary satellites.

"The significance of being able to estimate winter snow conditions lies in the fact that such estimates, if accurate, ultimately can be used in sophisticated models of global circulation to improve long-range forecasting; a goal that has been pursued by meteorologists for many years," Wiesnet, a senior research hydrologist, said.

NOAA operates two satellite systems, one utilizing polar-orbiting spacecraft which scan every spot on the globe twice every 24 hours; the other using geostationary satellites which are in synchronous orbit with the earth, holding positions over the equator so that North and South America are constantly in view of their sensors.

Children's Barnyard is good experience for all involved

By Joanne Spahr

MANHEIM, Pa. - For the fifth year now, the Manheim Community Farm Show has had a Children's Barnyard Tent for the agricultural education of kindergarten and elementary school students. Run by the Future Farmers of America, the tent provides animals and demonstrations for the enjoyment of children and adults, alike.

"Although we had only 450 students on our reservation list, at least double that will come through in three days because we ran it as a sort of children's petting zoo this year," explained Jess Erway, agriculture instructor at Manheim Central High School. In other years, teachers made reservations for their groups so that an FFA student could be assigned to providing them with a demonstration.

"We have the demonstrations to teach the students how to work with the public," Erway noted. Some of the demonstrations given this year were on horse riding, milking, tractor parts and safety, and fitting of dairy animals and sheep.

One demonstrator, Alan Simerson, Manheim R4 was kept busy while he showed tractors to the children.

"I was really surprised by this one first grader," he said, "I had to stop and think before I answered his questions."

Parents and teachers seem to feel the barnyard is a real educational experience. One mother drove all the way from Sinking Spring, Pa., to come to the Farm Show, and she made it a point to bring her children over to the tent.

"We took the whole day off from school and we put on the excuse card, 'for educational purposes'," she said. "Oh, yes, I definitely think this tent is good for my children," she added.

Jay Gainer, Manheim R4, an 11th grader who had been helping with the tent for several years, pointed out that he was sure it was a good educational experience because, "the same teachers bring kids back every year."

Probably the greatest aspect of the barnyard is that it is totally run by the FFA members.

"I appoint one senior to have responsibility for the whole thing," Erway explained. "He takes care of most things and makes sure it is secured for the night before he goes home."

The tent is also filled with animals provided by the FFA members, and the demonstrations are set up by them.

So, while the tent is a good education for visitors, it is also a learning experience for the students involved in running it.

PROTEIN:

why purchase it when you can grow it?

Are you paying hard cash for protein you could grow? Do your present forage crop harvesting, storing and feeding practices cost you valuable nutrients? Did you know, in some areas, it is possible to produce twice the nutritional value per acre as haylage than you can as hay . . . and with 75% less labor?

Did you know 90% of the digestible protein in alfalfa is in the leaves? Top quality alfalfa haylage will score 20 to 25% crude protein.

When you put properly cut haylage in a Harvestore structure, you store more leaves, thus more nutrients. You save on labor. You reduce storage losses. You beat the weather. You increase storage capacity. You assure top palatability. You reduce field losses. You save money on insurance. In short, you get maximum benefits from your cropland.

WAYNE'S Lifetime Dairy Program

. . . designed for high production

The Calf/Heifer Program

Two Wayne milk replacers, Calfnip and Calf-Mate, give the calf optimum growth and performance under stress conditions, smooth, glossy hair coats and less digestive upset. Wayne fed calves are both growthy and easy to feed. Wayne milk replacers cost less and produce good calves with substantial savings over whole milk feeding. Wayne Calf Krunch starter ration, and Wayne's complete Dry Cow & Heifer Conditioner or Conditional Mix lead your calves to the high levels of production you expect.

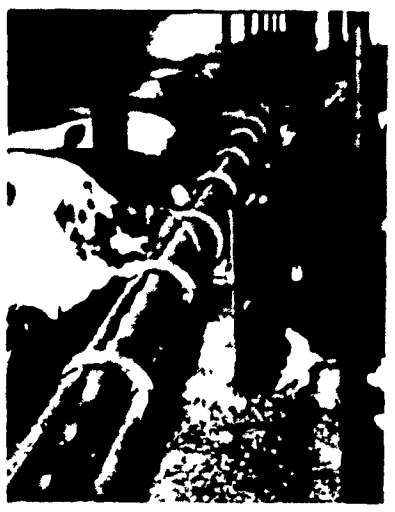
Wayne Dari-Blens

All five of Wayne's Dari-Blens contain several sources of protein which are made available to the cow in different lengths of time following feeding. This means that by the time one protein source is used up, another starts to go to work, helping the cow make milk hour after hour.

We call this practical research discovery "timed protein release." Protein is expensive, but cheaper than not enough protein. Wayne Dari-Blen added to local grains and roughage makes a complete ration, with guaranteed nutrient content.

Wayne Complete Dairy Feeds



Wayne has a complete milking ration for every operation in Pellet Krunch or Meal Form for dairymen who do not have an adequate supply of grain or who want the time-saving convenience of a complete ration.

Test Cows (for hay feeding)

- High energy - balances low energy of hay
- Low fiber - balances high fiber of hay
- Mineral fortification - designed to balance deficiencies in hay

High Flows (for corn silage feeding)

- Medium energy - balances energy level of corn silage
- Medium fiber - corrects silage fiber deficiencies
- Mineral fortification - balances silage mineral levels

Sweet Feeds (for excellent quality corn silage)

- Low energy - to compensate for high energy in corn silage
- High fiber - balances low fiber in corn silage

The Wayne Lifetime Dairy Program meets the needs of today's expert dairyman best in every important way. Push your cows to their profitable best with Wayne.

Penn Manor club is a symbol of 'new 4-H'

By SALLY BAIR
Feature Writer

4-H Club Week offers an opportunity to applaud 4-H'ers and 4-H volunteer leaders for the work they do throughout the year. While projects are completed for this year, club activities continue and the 4-H beat goes on.

An active, progressive 4-H club does not just happen. A lot of hard work is involved in getting a 4-H club organized and making sure projects are carried through from start to finish.

The Penn Manor Community 4-H Club is a club which symbolizes the "new 4-H" and meets members' needs through a good organizational structure.

Two years ago the club had 40 members; in 1976 it had over 90 members. Its projects this year ranged from the traditional sewing and cooking to beekeeping and electronics.

The dynamic leader most responsible for the Penn Manor Club's outstanding growth is Mrs. J. Clayton Charles, Lancaster R 2. While Mrs. Charles is modest in taking credit for successes, she recognizes that organization plays a big part in keeping a club running smoothly. She says quite matter-of-factly, "I'm an organized person."

Mrs. Charles has been a leader for just three years, and for the past two years has been serving as the organizational leader of the community club; that is, the one responsible for the overall operation of the 4-H club. She willingly shared the blueprint which has worked for her club, but admits that each year some things are changed to see how they work out.

Dorothy Charles' organization begins long before the first 4-H'er signs up on the enrollemnt sheet in March. Before the first meeting of the year, Mrs. Charles has already contacted leaders and has arranged which projects will be offered. This is done in consulatation with the leaders and with older 4-H'ers. Mrs. Charles said, "They need to have input because they have ideas worth listening to."

How do you find leaders for the wide range of proejcts offered in today's community clubs? Mrs. Charles said, "I just heard of interest among the neighborhood. I got on the phone and one person would tell me to try another and I just kept going until I got them."

Mrs. Charles said it is important to have plenty of leaders, because they must keep members interested, especially where parents are not solidly behind the members. She said, "Some are going to be lost from 4-H, but you can't be discouraged by that because there are so many good ones."

She said they try to use 4-H teen leaders as much as possible in the club, and added, "I hope to have more in the future, but this doesn't happen overnight."

In the Penn Manor 4-H club, leaders are strongly encouraged to go to the extension-sponsored 4-H leader training sessions. "They can always learn in leadership and it really gets you warmed up to 4-H when you attend a training meeting," Mrs. Charles said.

So now that the leaders are signed up and ready to go, how do you get 4-H'ers? Mrs. Charles said her club distributes letters throughout the elmentary schools in the area they wish to cover. She said these letters begin at the fourth grade, which means some of the younger eligible kids are missed. She said, however, if they learn about it and are really interested, they are welcomed into the club. This year the Penn Manor 4-H club included the Millersville Borough in their letter-area, and they attracted a large number of borough youth to the club.

This initial letter, Mrs. Charles explains, tells what 4-H is and invites interested persons to the organizational meeting. This first meeting is an important one because she tells more specifically what 4-H is all about, the experiences it offers and the responsibilities it entails. Then the project leaders tell about their special areas of interest after which prospective members divide into smaller groups and the 4-H'ers can learn exactly what the projects involve.

Mrs. Charles said, "We allow more than one project per child, but we discourage it. We do emphasize the responsibilities in completing a project. Some have no idea the work involved."

Penn Manor

Enrollment cards are filled out at this meeting, and a letter is sent home with each child telling the parent which project the child has selected, along with a schedule of meetings for the rest of the summer. The name of the child's project leader and phone number is listed on this sheet and there is also information regarding membership dues for the year.

Mrs. Charles feels strongly that it is important for parents be involved and intersted in their child's 4-H project. She said, "This is still a challenge for me. I need to establish better communication between parents and the project leaders. She has some project leaders who send newsletters to the parents, and the initial letter to the parents encourages their participation at the monthly meetings so they can feel a part of their child's activities.

Asked if transportation is a problem when the club members are scattered over a large rural area, Mrs. Charles replied, "If the parent are interested they will provide the transportation." She also explained that in at least one instance a project leader organized carpools to get the members to her home for project meetings.

A complete list of coming events is made available to each member, with pecific dates and directions to the monthly meetings. This coming events sheet also provides the meeting times and dates of the individual projects.

Here Mrs. Charles shows one of the "props" she uses at the first meeting of the year when she explains what 4-H means

Last year it was arranged to have election of officers at the second meeting of the club so members could get to know each other. A nominating committee is appointed so that some prior thought goes into the election, and it is suggested that no first year member be nominated.

This year, according to Mrs. Charles, election of officers for the coming year will be held at the time of the Halloween party. This will allow the new officers to be ready to help with 4-H Expo which comes early in the spring before clubs are usually organized. The officers will also be included in the leaders' planning meeting next year and can offer their opinions about projects and activities.

Mrs. Charles said she likes to give the officers an opportunity to do their jobs and tries to use them whenever possible. She said, "It is good to spread responsibility. It is a good learning experience for the members."

The Penn Manor 4-H Club, as with many community clubs, meets year round. The March organizational meeting as well as the April and May meetings are held in a centrally located hall so members can get there fairly easily. For the three summer months, Mrs. Charles said, they try to meet on a farm. "It gives kids a touch of wholesome atmosphere. They can't help but pick it up. We always have refreshments. The members like that." There is no meeting in September or November, but there is a Halloween and a Christmas party. They skip January and February, and then begin the new year in March.

Mrs. Charles looks back over this project year with satisfaction. She said, "We had our share of champion and reserve champion ribbons at Achievemnt Day. And we had our share of blue ribbons." She points out too that the Penn Manor Club had three of the top ten talent winners who performed at Achievement Day. "I feel the project leader is very important in communicting with the 4-H'ers. They must encourage them to finish projects and encourage them to participate in Achievemnt Day. It's a good experience for the members, because any ribbons even a white one, makes young people happy. We have a lot of young ones. It's important to keep those young ones in, because as they get older, they get better.

Mrs. Charles has two sons in the club and her husband used to be a leader with her. Now she says although he's very supportive, he feels it's too time consuming for him to be a full time leader. He is content to stay on the sidelines and give her the time to do her job properly and just help out when necessary. But, she said, "I think it's good when husbands and wives are leaders together."

All in all, Mrs. Charles says she feels 4-H is a beneficial experience for young people. It helps round out their life with experiences they wouldn't ordinarily get.

As 4-H week draws to a close and the project year is completed perhaps your club could use some evaluation. The "organization" which got the Penn Manor 4-H Club vital and growing could be the answer to lethargy in other clubs.

The formula is no secret. Mrs. Charles says pre planning and careful follow through can spell success.

Before turning on the oven be sure to take time to position the rack so it divides the oven in half. If you're going to be using two racks, then divide the oven into thirds. This simple little practice will insure proper oven ventilation and prevent prolonged cooking times.

Barbeque held

SEIPTSTOWN, Pa. - The Lehigh County FFA held it's Annual Chicken Bar-B-Que at the Siepstown Grange, on September 26, from 11.00 a.m. till 2:00 p.m. The meal included half a chicken, baked potato, baked beans, cole slaw, roll, birch beer, and dessert. The chapter members did all the cooking and served over 225 meals. Many new students and parents were in attendance.

Proper Creaming

Proper creaming is a must to give those cakes a soft velvety texture. Make sure the fat is at room temperature. With an electric mixer cream the fat on low speed, add sugar and beat on medium speed until the sugar dissolves and the creamed mixture is light and fluffy.

Proper Pan

Always use the proper pan size when baking a cake. The batter should fill the pan about half full. If you must use a smaller pan, bake cupcakes with the extra batter.

What's New

A new, highly efficient sequestered trace mineral pre mix specifically tailored for confinement feeding of swine is now available from the Feed Ingredients Division of Stauffer Chemical Company.

Known as Sea Questra Min trace mineral pre mix for swine, the product provides high biological availability in feeds. It is especially recommended as a source of minerals in starter and sow rations.

Sea Questra Min for swine contains 0.6 per cent copper, five per cent iron, four per cent manganese and 6.5 per cent zinc. The trace minerals are soluble yet completely sequestered so they cannot form complexes or interact with vitamins. The product is available as a free flowing powder in 50 pound bags.

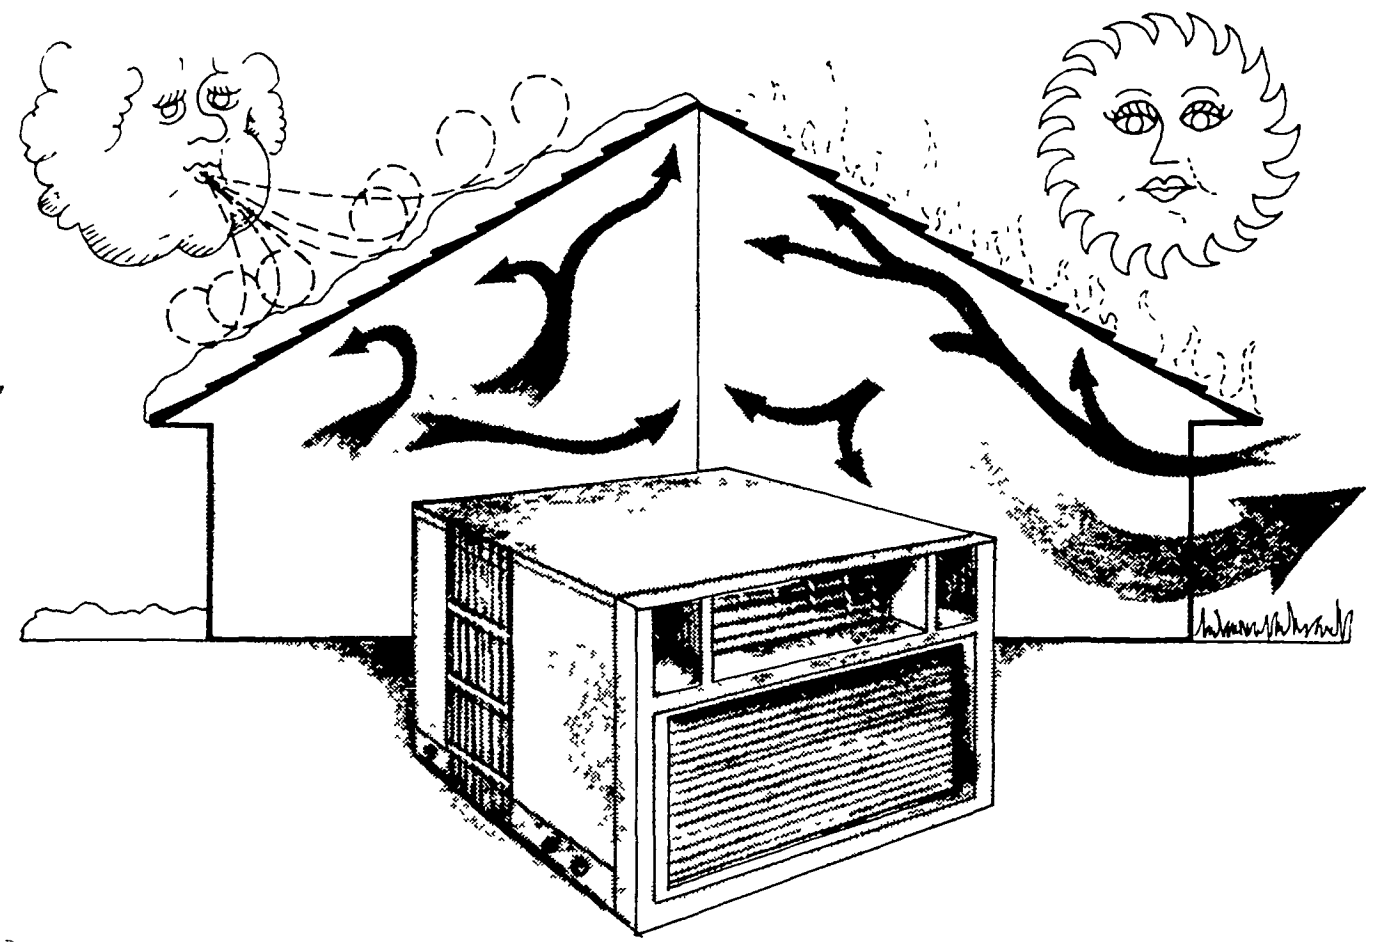
A New Concept In Home Building...

for people planning to purchase an electrically heated home

Saving energy and money is important these days and will be even more important in the future That's why PP&L is introducing the "Energy Efficient Home Program" Working with participating builders, PP&L has established standards of home construction for such things as insulation and sheathing . windows and doors water heating . ventilation . plus home heating and cooling which includes the modern electric heat pump



Heating and Cooling in one efficient and compact unit

Chances are, you've heard about heat pumps lately. And for good reason. In cold weather this unique system actually "extracts heat" from outside air to heat your home. In summer, the process is reversed and heat is "pumped" from inside your home to cool it. The result? Clean, quiet and dependable comfort, year-round.

Installing a heat pump and air distribution system today will provide you with many options for the future, too. For example, solar energy equipment or a fuel-fired furnace can be combined with the heat pump to expand your future energy options and help keep your heating costs at a minimum.

That's why, if you're thinking of a new electrically heated home, it'll pay you to look for one that qualifies for the Energy-Efficient Home Award It's your assurance that you'll be getting the most practical energy-saving features in home building today.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The changing of the seasons brings with it a job which I dislike I've just been on the attic to sort through the garment bags and pick out wearable winter clothes Are the coats and jackets large enough for another winter? Which ones show signs of wear but can be used for barn work? Are others good enough for our fall clothing drive at church?

Each year I take armfuls of clothes to church and wonder where they come from as I buy very few. The answer is that friends have been generous in sharing garments with us We hope that others will appreciate what they receive

There are a few pleasant moments entailed in this job. One is the memories that come rushing back as one fingers a wedding suit, a maternity dress, or a childs first snow suit It is even possible to find a blouse, just like the one you planned to buy, among your daughters discarded college wardrobe So once again the tedious job of sorting and storing clothes is finished and we go on to other work

xxx

This year I won't have to pick up as many black walnuts as previously because some little boys did the job for me. You see, this summer my husband discovered a large area of corn tramped down as they threw sticks into the tree to bring down green walnuts to use as ammunition in their big slingshots. Pity the animals that live nearby.

Director named

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - The Board of Regents last month (Sept. 24) approved the appointment of Dr. W. Lamar Harris as director of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, a research unit of the University of Maryland at College Park. The appointment will be effective on Oct. 18.

Dr. Harris becomes the eighth director since the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station was established on the College Park campus in 1888. He is a professor of agricultural engineering in the Division of Agricultural and Life Sciences, served as chairman of that department since June 21, 1974, and was acting chairman for almost two years previous to that appointment.

Due to impressive fuel economy, Jøtul is an investment that can pay for itself over the first winter.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Home Economist

RIGHT DESIGN OF CLOTHES CAN MAKE YOU LOOK SLIMMER

Use clothes to help you look and feel better while you're trying to lose weight. Line, especially, is important.

The lines in the clothes you wear are a powerful tool to make you look your best. A person's eye follows these lines when they look at you. By directing their eyes, you can lengthen or shorten your figure, broaden or slim it. Besides, lines are particularly important for 1976 because stripes are in. Whether it's pin, chalk, cluster or other stripes, it's fashionable this year.

So use lines to help you look slimmer. First, try to make yourself look taller rather than wider. This is true even for people who are rather tall to begin with. If you're carrying extra weight, this tends to make you lose a few pounds in looks even before you send them on your diet.

To look taller, choose lines that make the eyes look up and down. The vertical look helps give that impression. This might be done with a plain color suit that gives a solid top to bottom line. Or it might be done with a dress that has a line of contrasting buttons down the front.

Avoid clothes that give you a split across the middle. For example, a light top and dark pants do that. This kind of outfit gives the impression that you're wider than you are.

In the case of the vertical line, it's even better when you double the effect. That is, two lines together that run from top to bottom of your figure emphasize that up-and-down look.

For example, a band of contrasting trim on a dress that runs from neckline to hem does this. It gives a line at each edge of the trim which form a double line. The eye can't resist traveling up and down and gives a picture that's taller and slimmer than you are.

But beware having the lines too far apart. Then the yey jumps sideways from one line to another rather than up and down. The effect is to make you look wider.

If you want a fashionably striped outfit this year, don't be afraid to choose one. Just make sure the stripes give vertical eye direction. Check them yourself to see if your eye tends to run up and down the garment or from side to side. Avoid stripes that make your eyes move from one side to the other.

But many up and down stripes on a short garment won't make you look as slim as the single line from top to bottom. That vertical look is also possible if you use a diagonal line. Just make sure the diagonal is a long one. That is, the closer it gets to being straight up and down, the longer it is and slimmer look. If it's a diagonal line that gets close to lying down on it's side, it will tend to make you look wider.

A real energy-saving tip is to drive an aluminum spike through the center of a potato when baking. This will save about half the usual baking time. Aluminum spikes or nails usually measure about four and one-half inches long and can be found in hardware or department stores.

Lancaster Co. Society 19

The Society of Farm Women 19 will celebrate their 30th anniversary on Saturday, October 9 at the Landisville Church of God social room. Husbands and guests are invited to join the members in a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p.m. Former members and their husbands have been invited to join in the festivities also.

Amos Herr, a retired teacher from Hempfield will be the speaker. A quartette of women from the Lancaster Church of God, Four Aglow, will provide music.

Lancaster Co. Society 15

The September meeting of Farm Women Society 15 was a luncheon at the Joe Myers Restaurant on Route 30 East. The meeting was held Saturday, September 25, and was conducted by Mrs. Kathryn Horner, president.

Some members have been sewing bedpads on Wednesdays for sick in the community. Kathryn Wagner, chairman of the trip committee, reported on a trip to Hawaii held in August.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the Union Church social room on October 21 at 7:30 p.m. All members will wear a homemade paper bag Halloween mask, and families are invited.

xxx

Gas and electric ovens are insulated to hold heat in- everytime the door is opened 10 per cent of the heat is lost. So don't peek! Not only does this cost you more, but it can cause cakes to fall and account for other baking failures.

xxx

Heating an oven to bake one pie or a few muffings is a waste of energy. Small baking tasks can be done quite successfully on top of the range in a sturdy utensil with a tight-fitting lid, or in a portable electric oven.

Travelogue scheduled

LITITZ The 14th Annual Travel and Adventure Series of Travelogues will begin this year on October 16th at Warwick High School Auditorium, it was announced recently by the Lititz Rotary Club.

Narrated by the photographers who have filmed them, these travelogue features have been one of Lititz most popular entertainments.

The shows this year will include:

October 16, 1976 Robert Brouwer - "Canada's Many Faces"

November 27, 1976 Bob Ditta - "France"

January 15, 1977 Romain Wilhelmsen - "Adventure in Colombia"

February 12, 1977 Joe Adair - "All About England"

March 19, 1977 Bill Kennedy - "Motoring Through Germany"

April 30, 1977 Dennis Cooper - "Montana Adventure"

Season tickets are $7.00 for adults, and $3.50 for students and children. General admission tickets are $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children or students.

Season tickets may be purchased from any Rotary Club member, at Landis Meat Market, 53 North Broad Street, Lititz or from George Ketterman, 721 Landis Valley Road, Lititz (phone 626-5333). Checks can be made payable to the Lititz Rotary Club.

It is suggested that persons will season tickets be seated early, since no seats are reserved.

The net proceeds from this series go into the community service work to which Rotary is dedicated. Through the Travel and Adventure Series you can not only enjoy travelling through the travelogues but can also help support such projects as Lititz Springs Park, Lititz Recreation Center, Lititz Public Library, American Field Service, Rotary Leader's Camp and many other groups.

The Rotary Club also offers free admission to the afternoon shows to guest groups from local retirement homes.

My Thoughts and Welcome to Them

(With apologies to James Thurber)

City kids just don't know what they are missing

By JOANNE SPAHR

I never cease to be amazed by the cultural differences between city reared and farm reared individuals When I first went to college I had to adjust to "dinner being called lunch and supper being called dinner Then too, the size and importance of the meal was switched because the office employed father looked forward to a good meal in the evenings when he got home from work whereas my father always needed a good meal at noon to tide him over during an afternoon of strenuous physical labor I was also amazed by a family that didn't really know the secure feeling of being able to locate the father and mother any time during the day But, after four years of living in the college environment, I thought I had come to the end of finding differences between myself and my city friends But, I was wrong Just the other day I was surprised again when I had one of my Philadelphia friends up to the farm for a "weekend vacation "

During the evening we were sitting in the living room holding a pleasant conversation when a thunderstorm rolled over us Thunder was cracking, lightening was flashing, and I naturally was alarmed She, of course, was also But, this was nothing out of the ordinary because I think everyone is affected by the strong forces of nature But, what was really interesting is that the base for her fear was totally different from mine Whereas my first thought and fear is for the barn being struck and the responsibility of having to get the animals out, if possible, she had no concept of this kind of fear. Instead, she simply was afraid of the sound and flashing. Another thing that was different was that I also feared being struck were I to venture outside and that thought never even crossed her mind In fact, she asked me if I had ever heard of anything being struck by lightening because she hadn't To a person who has grown up hearing about livestock loss due to storms, that question seemed naive But, in Philadelphia, it is a rare occurrence to have someone or something struck by lightening Then, too, she naturally didn't know what a lightening rod was

From this, the conversation branched off to what it was like when I was a child and we had a thunderstorm We used to all sit together at the kitchen table invariably in the dark, because our lights always went out And, we would always have candles handy so we could spend a nice candlelight evening, while we waited for the two or three inevitable things to happen First, the lightening always seemed to seek out the T V and strike it, blowing out the tube for three or so weeks until we got it fixed Or, the phone would suddenly come to life for one brief second after a bolt of lightening hit it and then knocked it dead That was always one of the worst things to happen because we had no control over the amount of time it took for that to get fixed like we did for the T.V Instead we were at the mercy of the phone company, and in those days rural people seemed to come last on the list of the - phone company's priorities.

It almost used to be fun to have a storm because it called an impromtu family get-together. City kids just have no idea of all the fun they miss by not living on a farm--all the way down to something as non-farm-related as a storm.

Lancaster County Farm Women Society 11 met on September 30 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Martha McComsey near Quarryville. The meeting was opened by vice-president Dorothy Huber. Roll call was answered by 16 members and three guests.

President Violet Eshleman was in charge of the business meeting. Secretary and treasurer reports were given and approved. The sunshine report was given. Nominating committee reported, and three new members were appointed to the book committee.

Final plans for the bus trip on October 14 were given by Marie Bucher.

Members were requested to bring program suggestions and hostess invitations for use of the book committee. The announcement was made concerning the county convention on November 6. It was decided to have a bazaar table at the Extension service Christmas party on November 8.

Bessie Ressel installed Mrs. John Hardy as a new member.

Donald Risk showed a picture presentation of his trip to Russia as the entertainment for the day.

A small auction was held. During the social hour, refreshments were served by the committee.

A change has been made for October 28. The meeting will be held in the social room of the Quarryville Methodist Church, and Mrs. Robert Bucher will give a craft demonstration.

Lancaster Co. Society 3

The Lancaster County Society of Farm Women Group 3 took a field day this month instead of their regular meeting night.

The group motored to "Ott's Exotic Plants" and toured the greenhouses on Route 29 at Schwenksville, Pa.

The next stop for the group was at "Mill Grove," the Audubon Wildlife Sanctuary in Audubon, Pa.

Edward Graham, curator of Mill Grove, spoke to the ladies before their tour.

During a picnic at Lower Perkiomen Park, Mrs. Mary Hill, vice-president, conducted a business meeting.

After lunch, the final stop was at the Iron Master's House in Center Point where Harry Haupt gave a tour and spoke to the ladies.

Mrs. Joseph Bartholomew announced the October meeting will be a trip to the Franklin Mint on October 26.

Summer Heat Hard on Farm Equipment

Although winter weather is damaging, summer sun and heat also shortens the life of farm equipment. As farm equipment becomes more "sophisticated" and expensive, it pays even more to keep it under cover when not in use.

Equipment manufacturers optimistic

BOCA RATON, Fla Farm equipment manufacturers, whose sales have been pushed to record levels in recent years by growing world food needs, anticipate another strong market for their products in 1977

Outlook statements prepared by industry leaders in connection with the 83rd annual convention of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute expressed general optimism about 1977 prospects The convention of the industry trade group convened here October 3-5

Reasons cited for expecting a strong market in 1977 included record farm cash receipts, export demand, and the importance of large, modern equipment in performing field work in timely fashion

One of those expecting 1977 to be another good year was Brooks McCormick, president of International Harvester But he cautioned post election years are particularly difficult to forecast

The government's restrictions on overseas markets, indecision or the unwarranted use of our food production as a national or international political device would again throw our food system into an imbalance However, a commitment by government to fully utilize world markets for the U S farmer's productive capacity will help assure a healthy agriculture," McCormick said

William A Hewitt, chairman of Deere and Company, said world food reserves, although somewhat improved, remain relatively low' and said despite the dry conditions which have affected many farming regions this year, the agricultural outlook overall is good "

Farm cash receipts, normally a reliable indicator of farm equipment sales, will approximate $97 5 billion this year despite the drought This $97 5 billion represents a new high in farm cash receipts, and present indications are that a further increase can be expected in 1977, Hewitt said

John L Mitchell, Massey-Ferguson's executive vice president Americas, said farm cash income should improve some three to four per cent in 1977 on top of an increase of nearly seven per cent this year Morris W Reid, chairman, J I Case, said cash receipts should grow to $101 billion in 1977

Income from cattle and hog livestock will be up while crop income will remain stable Grain reserves should remain low despite the bumper crop U S farm equipment sales for 1977 should equal 1976 results, while sales in Canada may show a slight increase' Reid said

Mitchell said the need for timeliness of farming operations larger farms, and continuing shortages of farm labor will encourage farmers to buy bigger units "

Louis R Ross, vice president - general manager Fort Tractor Operations said the North American market will continue to show signs of strength and growth through 1977 as global demand for food and fiber reaches toward record levels " Ross estimated 1977 North American industry volumes for tractor sales would reach approximately 176,000. That is seven per cent under 1976 projections, but Ross noted these volumes reflect a continuing trend toward higher horsepower tractors, primarily in the 140 horsepower range and above.

Roy W. Uelner, executive vice president of Allis-Chalmers Corporation, said the 1977 outlook is strong "as worldwide prospects for farm machinery sales increase. He said key factors in the outlook were continuing farm production efficiency in North America, the continuing trend toward high capacity machinery and conservation tillage equipment, and the efforts of many less developed nations to develop a self sufficiency in food production.

Robert E. Kidder, president, White Farm Equipment Company, said he believes farm equipment buyers can look forward to greater competition among manufacturers in 1977.

"Expansion programs to bring capacities up to meet farmers' demands are being completed, and supply now equals demand. The farmer is in the driver's seat," he said.

Kenneth F. Thompson, president of Sperry New Holland, expects farm equipment sales to remain at high levels during 1977 and said:

"In addition to all of the basic economic indicators which point to continued strong demand, we have noted an increasing willingness by farmers to make earlier trade-ins on new equipment with proven better technologies and increased productivity."

R. W. Engle, vice president and general manager of Avco's New Idea Farm Equipment Division, said he expects a year of overall strong demand including some increases for selected items of equipment in total - if commodity and livestock prices continued their downward trend. Farmers buy on encouraging news, hold back on possible bad news. At worst I see it about flat with 1976; at best, up five per cent in real growth," Engle said.

AGWAY 840X

"The best hybrid Agway has ever offered my growers."

NICK FERRANT, JR. AGWAY CROPS SPECIALIST

If you grow corn in Delaware, Maryland, Jersey or southeastern Pennsylvania, take a tip from Nick Ferrant. Be sure to include Agway 840X in your planting plans for '77.

In Nick's words, "In long-season areas, I doubt if any corn will beat this one when well grown. High yields of silage and grain, excellent standability and high-population performance . . . and medium-low ears that harvest beautifully."

Another of Nick's favorites? Agway 834X. A great long-season grain hybrid.

This year, put both in your corn program. Agway 840X and 834X will come through with the energy results you need and you'll find out that Nick really knows what he's talking about.

Agway Energy Kings... more milk making power. AGWAY

Equipment

Lyle Yost chairman of Hesston Corporation said with generally good crops during 1976 and with commodity prices expected to hold or improve during the next 12 month period we expect retail farm equipment sales to remain strong."

Robert H Rawson, president of the Empire Plow Company, said "demand for soil engaging tillage steels has levelled off during the past three or four months and the volume of shipments for 1977 is predicted to be somewhat lower than in the very good year of 1976." He added 1977 should be a reasonably good year

Robert M Matre, president of Lilliston Corporation, said all of the outlook factors "add up to a year of equal to or better than 1976."

R L McElheny, president of Farmhand, Inc, said the large number of calves still on feed may come to market in the spring of 1977, expending the currently depressed price level for feeder calves and holding down the profits of the rancher, cow-calf operator throughout the first half of 1977. He said this unfavorable prospect, coupled with the dry conditions and short hay crop, will continue to hurt sales in the ranching sector of agriculture

M. L. Lorenzen, president of Hawkeye Steel Products, said he expects some slight improvement in cattle equipment in 1977 and a modest increase in sales of equipment and systems manufactured for the swine producer.

"If the U.S. farmer gets a fair price for his products then others in agri-business and the entire economy benefit," Leon B. Mugler, president of Royal Industries-Hutchinson Division, said. "We look for government policies to be consistent with these thoughts and look for continued good demand for the equipment we produce during 1977."

Erik Gregersen, division manager IMC Corporation's agricultural machinery division said that although the long term outlook for agricultural equipment looks bright we feel that many of the processed agricultural food crops today are being produced in quantities which will tend to keep prices in a state of flux and therefore cause growers to hesitate to purchase equipment for these crops

John L. Love, president of the J E Love Company, said "the outlook for 1977 in general is for a slight decline in demand The pipeline is beginning to fill"

William J Jensen, senior vice president of Butler Manufacturing Company, said "the market for agricultural equipment will continue to gather strength in 1977 Recovery of farm income in 1976 will have a positive carry over impact on several product lines through 1977"

Robert O White, president of Van Dale, Inc, said "we are encouraged by the extent of recent recovery trends in farmstead equipment" and "we anticipate a steady continuing improvement through 1977"

Weather-resistant RAMIK® Brown rodenticide

keeps shape, freshness, taste, potency. Count on a long period of excellent control.

Potent treatment costs little in comparison with loss of just a few of your trees.

What s one of your trees worth?
What will a bushel of fruit bring?

Figure what your loss would be from just one dead tree root pruned or girdled and killed by orchard mice (meadow voles)

The figure the application of highly effective Ramik Brown weather resistant rodenticide

You'll find Ramik well worth it'

Ramik bait is 26% protein

As food sources diminish after harvest, meadow voles go all out for highly palatable, apple flavored mouse sized Ramik pellets and leave your trees alone Most other foods simply do not attract rodents as high-protein Ramik does

The quiet killer

Ramik Brown pellets contain a small amount of the well-known anticoagulant, diphacinone a killing agent used by professional exterminators Diaphacinone thins out the blood so that the vole bleeds internally, painlessly, and dies

Because diphacinone is in such low concentration, the vole does not react violently Ramik does not "signal" its killing ingredient Chance of bait shyness is much lessened

Ramik lasts long, does the job

A special patented manufacturing process helps Ramik pellets retain shape, palatability and potency, even under high moisture conditions Also chemically treated for mold and insect-resistance, weather-resistant Ramik keeps fresh over a comparatively long period

Get ready to bait with Ramik Brown

As it says on the label, apply Ramik pellets after harvest and before snow Ramik will knock down the hungry vole population Later, when the snow recedes, a second application can be made to control high density populations or the voles that may have reinfested the vacated tunnels

Ramik is a pesticide Handle it as you would any other orchard chemical Never allow exposure of bags to non target species Do not expose bait in small piles or in a constricted pattern The bait should be scattered evenly over the orchard floor at the rate specified on the label Reseal any unused portion of the bait and store in a closed storage area

Registered for use only in Colorado, Idaho, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Virginia and Washington

Livestock judging team squeaks into first place

RICHMOND, Va Maryland's 4-H livestock judging B team squeaked by the host Virginia team for a first-place finish last month in a field of eight state teams during the Eastern U S 4-H livestock judging contest at Richmond, Va The event was held in conjuction with the annual Atlantic Rural Exposition and Virginia State Fair

The "B" team's feat duplicated the victory of Maryland's 4-H livestock judging "A" team just one week earlier during the Eastern States Exposition at West Springfield, Mass

High individual in the Richmond contest was Jack D. Shanks, Jr , 15, of Damascus, Md. He had been third in senior 4-H livestock judging on September 4 at the Matyland State Fair in Timonium

Another upper Montgomery county 4-H member placed eleventh in the eastern U.S. competition at Richmond. She was Lori Hobbs, also 15, who lives in the Friendship area north of Damascus.

Shanks and Miss Hobbs placed 1-2 in beef cattle judging at Richmond, leading the Maryland delegation to a team victory in that livestock class The team finished third in swine judging and fourth in sheep

Maryland's reigning lamb and wool queen, Linda Clarke, 16, of Uniontown placed third in over-all individual 4-H livestock judging competition at Richmond Appropriately, she had the highest score among all contestants in sheep reasons, scoring 47 out of a possible 50 points

Fourth member of the Maryland "B" team competing at Richmond was Molly Johnson, 15, of Nottingham, Pa., a resident of Cecil county, Md. She and Miss Clarke had placed fifth and second, respectively, in senior 4-H livestock judging at this year's Maryland State Fair

Assistant coach for the Maryland "B" team at Richmond was Dennis L. Trout, Extension 4-H and youth agent in Montgomery county Head coach for both the "A" and "B teams is William A. Curry, Extension livestock specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Charolais show high 'bull power'

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa Semen collected six times weekly from young Charolais bulls harvests 11 billion more motile sperm per bull per week than once a week collection, according to experiments at Penn State University

Studied were Charolais bulls from the age of puberty (41 weeks) to two years of age The experiments found that ejaculations six times a week produced no harmful effects on semen traits, sperm output, or testes growth Carrying out the studies were J O Almquist, R J Branas, and K. A Barber of the Dairy Breeding Research Center at Penn State

If young Charolais bulls are collected only once weekly, rather than six times weekly, 70 per cent of the motile sperm will not be harvested for use in artificial insemination, Dr. Almquist declared.

Scrotal circumference and width each increased by 32 per cent from puberty to two years of age Slightly over three-fourths of the increase occurred between puberty and 65 weeks of age

Scrotal circumference has been shown to be a highly repeatable, easily obtained indicator of testes size which is highly significant in correlation with testes weight in bulls of various ages and with sperm output in young bulls, Dr Almquist pointed out

At a given age, scrotal circumference and width were significantly correlated with sperm output of young Charolais bulls Scrotal circumference is the measurement of choice if only own is used. The Penn State scientists indicated scrotal circumference is easier to measure and involves less chance for accidental injury to the testes than measurements of scrotal width. They pointed out that high heritability estimates for scrotal circumference indicate that bulls selected for this trait should produce more sperm than the average of the population

The results also show that severe potential underdevelopment of the testes can be detected by scrotal measurements

Earlier studies at Penn State found the average age of Charolais bulls at onset of puberty was 41 weeks for 24 bulls This is significantly earlier than age at puberty reported for 20 Angus and Hereford bulls which averaged 45 weeks Age of puberty for the Charolais ranged from 33 to 53 weeks while age of puberty for the Angus and Hereford bulls ranged from 39 to 52 weeks

In the studies of puberty, the Charolais bulls were allowed free choice concentrate while Angus and Hereford bulls were fed a liberal allowance of high nutrients. The Penn State dairy physiologists said the earlier attainment of puberty by Charolais than by Angus and Hereford bulls could be attributed in part to the free choice feeding.

Average body weight at puberty was greater for the Charolais bulls than for Angus and Hereford. The average weight at puberty was 881 pounds for the Charolais, and ranged from 586 to 1100 pounds. The Angus and Hereford bulls averaged 697 pounds at puberty, and ranged from 472 to 898 pounds at puberty

Vigortone grows

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa - A new manufacturing plant and general office complex for Vigortone Products Company is under construction here on a 20-acre site located near the firm's present facilities. The manufacturing plant portion will cover over 100,000 square feet, more than twice the size of the existing plant facility. Warehousing space will almost double in size. Raw material storage will increase from 1,500,000 pounds to 3,000,000 pounds.

There will be twice as many production lines. New diagnostic and chemical laboratories will be included. Almost three and one-half acres will be under roof. The new Vigortone Complex, designed to meet all Environmental Protection Agency and Occupational Safety and Health Act requirements, is scheduled for completion early in 1977.

What's New

RAT BAIT

An economical new rat bait box is available from McCoy's Chemical Company of Cleveland, Ohio McCoy's indoor-outdoor bait box helps farmers comply with current FIFA label requirements that state "Baits should be placed in areas inaccessible to children, pets, wildlife and domestic animals or in tamper-proof bait boxes" Made of hi-impact plastic with reinforcing ribs, the one-piece base with raised entrance holes and the overhanging lid (embossed "poison" in large letters) are locked together by one way nylon security ties that must be cut to be removed The sealed unit reduces accident risk, while helping prevent spoilage of baits by the elements including seepage A reinforced ring for nailing the box down and a compartmented tray for wet or dry baits or combinations are molded into the base's bottom A 2-1-8" hole in both ends give rodents access to the private bait chamber McCoy's plastic rat bait boxes are available from farm supply distributors

Berks County Farm Women attend 25th annual convention

By JUDY MITCHELL
Berks Co. Reporter

LEESPORT, Pa. - County officers, committee chairmen, and group presidents reported on business and events of the past year to nearly 200 members of the Berks County Society of Farm Women and guests who attended the Society's 25th Annual Convention at the Berks County Ag Center on October 2. The main business of the day, however, was the election of new officers for the coming year.

Outgoing President Anne Yanos presided over the business meeting and introduced nominees for the offices of vice president and secretary.

Last year's vice president, Helen Ebling of Reading, will assume the president's gavel for the coming two years, and Ruth Walters, Douglasville R2, will maintain her position as county treasurer for the one remaining year of her two year term. Following the balloting, Darlene Yost of Bernville R1, moved into the vice presidential slot, and Dorothy Barrett, Perkiomenville R2, assumed the position of county secretary formerly held by Gail Malsbury.

Prior to the business meetings, the Society joined in a brief service to the memory of Sarah Marstellar, a 36-year member and one time county president from Douglasville R2 who died this past spring.

A sumptuous catered lunch followed the morning session, during which members and guests were invited to inspect a handsome assortment of hand made and home grown bazaar items being offered for sale.

After lunch, Berks County Dairy Princess Alternate Tammy Hafer offered her views on this year's county dairy princess contest, commenting on what the contestants personally gained through the experience, stressing the value of milk promotion, and explaining how the members own daughters can support the promotion effort by participating in next year's pageant.

Guest speaker, Dr. Garland Fisher of Pottstown, Pa., presented the group with his views on chiropractic medicine, focusing on what a chiropractor is and what he does.

Additional entertainment was provided by vocalist, Carol Bressler, accompanied by pianist, Beverly Parella.

Gradually introduce Corn Silage

Dairymen can avoid the corn silage blues by gradually introducing their cows to corn silage. Both the rumen microflora and lining must adjust to a major change in ration...such as the introduction of corn silage. This adjustment may require two to four weeks or more.

Need Water

Plants with shallow roots-such as azaleas, rhododendrons, mountain laurel, and flowering dogwood need frequent waterings. It is a good practice to continue watering these plants on a regular basis until the ground freezes during fall.

Potato grower was innovator in his time

By Judy Mitchell
Berks Co. Reporter

FLEETWOOD Raymond C Snyder, a retired Lehigh County farmer now living in Fleetwood R2, feels that potato growing is an area of farming which has remained too long in the shadows Snyder would like to see the potato "get its slice" of public recognition, and it appears that the potato could find no abler champion for its cause than a man who has spent over half a century in the business

Snyder, who adheres to the philosophy that "a man is never through learning," believes that at age 72, he can now say he knows "a little bit about potatoes" Snyder began learning about growing potatoes when he was nine, working the fields on the family farm with a harrow and a team of horses By the time he was eleven he was guiding the plow, but Snyder still recalls that when he began working the fields he wasn't even strong enough to turn the equipment, and if he didn't set it straight the first time he would have to circle the entire field and try again

When he was 22 years old, Snyder decided to make potato growing his life's work and took over the family farm, but only, he adds, after much consideration "I had to make a choice," he recalls now "There was a mortgage on the farm still to be paid, and my father was a crippled man" Although he'd never made a dollar's wages on the farm, there were all the years his parents and he had already put into it to think about. If he hadn't decided to stay with the farm, he says, "all that would have gone down the drain."

Snyder says that, according to his wife, a potato farmer's story "how the hardest way to make a living" While working for his father Snyder had loaded potatoes on box cars and worked on road construction during the off season and after he took over the farm he continued to find ways to supplement the income from his potato crops He ran a small dairy operation "to put bread on the table" He raised beef cattle and swine for a time, "to fill in, and also for the fertilizer" But Snyder never stopped learning about potatoes and continued to work towards making his potato business go

And make it go he did Young Snyder was obviously an innovator in his time, a brash young man who, as he recalls, his older neighbors gave a year to go under "But they lived to see me make it," he says with a smile Snyder had already incorporated the new spray programs being promoted to combat potato diseases while working for his father. He recalls that he had a job convincing his father to try the sprays, which also required investment in new equipment; but when he was sure Raymond was willing and able to do the work himself, the elder Snyder finally consented. Within four years of farming on his own, Snyder averaged over 400 bushels of potatoes per acre for which he was awarded membership in the Pennsylvania Potato Growers Association 400-Bushel Club

Raymond C Snyder, Fleetwood, checks quality and yield of the green mountain variety potatoes, which he is testing for his son, Lee, who now operates the family potato farms in Lehigh County

In 1941, Snyder made the news again when he installed a pond and irrigation system, the first of its kind in the area. According to the old newspaper clippings Mrs. Snyder has preserved in a scrapbook, the irrigation system, which could match 1½ inches of rainfall in one hour, was the talk of the town. But Snyder recalls the ribbing he took from friends and neighbors because "the first year I was ready to irrigate, it really rained."

Before turning the business over to his only son, Lee, 11 years ago, Snyder had purchased two more farms, added three more ponds, built a 50 by 112 foot, temperature and humidity controlled storage building (another first in the area), and had progressed to machine harvesting.

Although he claims he's been retired 11 years now, Snyder admits that "when you have worked all your life to build something, you can't just turn your back on it. It's kind of in the blood."

In keeping with his basic philosophy, Snyder is still learning about potatoes. Although he says he grew mainly russets in his day, the tried and true standby at that time, he eventually began to follow the results of experimental test plots at such institutions as Penn State University, and "if I saw somthing that looked good, I tried it." Now Snyder does the testing himself, planting new varieties that interest him in two potato patches, one at the family farms in Lehigh County and another behind his home in Fleetwood.

Potato grower

Snyder says that when he and his wife moved to Fleetwood three years ago, he was doubtful about the rocky soil but decided to make it his mission to determine if potatoes would grow there He has now satisfied himself that they will, but points out that "the soil isn't the best," and that he's improved the soil considerably already but that more could still be done

Talking with Snyder about his experimental plots, one begins to understand some of the complexities of potato growing There are factors like the size, shape, texture, and yield to consider in evaluating a variety, and, of course, all those are subject to variations in soil and weather conditions, so you can't really judge a variety after only one year's planting. But with all things equal, Snyder explains, a farmer has to consider yield in the final determination of a good variety. "No matter how good a variety looks," he say, "you have to be able to afford to plant it."

Snyder sees the experimental plot as the only practical way to go about choosing a new variety of potato; because, he points out, putting in acres of something new can turn out to be economically damaging. On the other hand, by trying it out a few years in a small way, "you haven't lost that much" if the variety doesn't prove itself.

Snyder's pet variety right now is the abnaki which he picked up a few years ago. The potato appears to be a home-makers dream - round, smooth, thin-skinned, not too big, not too small. Snyder is also pleased with the abnaki's rate of yield and says it passes the final test in the kitchen as well.

While Snyder's research efforts are directed towards improving the quality and economic value of potatoes grown in Pennsylvania, he is also vitally concerned with political action which would improve the lot of the potato grower. As things stand right now, he points out, the farmer is wholely responsible for the grade of his potatoes from the time they leave the farm until they are purchased by the consumer. Snyder maintains that such regulations are unfair to the farmer considering the abusive storage and display conditions he says he has witnessed in warehouses and supermarkets

Although Snyder acknowledges that he is personally fortunate in having a son interested in maintaining the family farm operation, he is uncertain about the future of farming in general, and claims that if the farmer does not get some measure of tax relief in the near future "we're going to be in trouble."

Dwight Houser advocates involvement in 4-H

By JOANNE SPAHR

LAMPETER, Pa. - If there is one thing Dwight Houser, Lampeter, has to say to 4-H'ers, it's 'get involved."

The more you put into it, the more you get out of it," says the nine year veteran of 4-H. Although this is an often quoted cliche, it nevertheless is the truth in most cases, and Dwight knows it to be accurate in the instance of the 4-H experience. In fact, Dwight has a few regrets that he wasn't aware of this fact earlier in his 4-H career.

"Until two years ago, 4-H was just something I was in, and it didn't mean as much to me then as it does now," explains the young farmer. But, then Dwight became involved in County Council and things began to change.

"In County Council we planned exchange trips and Achievement Day and were really one happy family," he explains. Out of this experience branched his exchange trip to Colorado which was one highlight of his time in 4-H.

It was terrific," he says simply with a matter-of-fact look on his face that expresses the gamut of emotions that go along with "terrific."

But, he goes farther and explains what made the trip terrific for him.

"Trips like that expand your perspective, and also help you learn to live with other people," he points out.

Not only does the exchange 4-H'er live in a totally foreign environment with a new family, but he is also subjected to learning how to live with a busload of other teenagers for nearly ten days - four or more on the way out and the same on the return trip.

"It was interesting to watch," notes Dwight. "The first morning everybody was quiet with only a few groups of people whispering here and there in the bus. Then, by afternoon, it was a little louder, and by night, everybody was joining in."

Those trips, however, can also get a little cramped and tiresome after four days, and that is when a person begins to learn to live with others, or, as Dwight says, learns to "put up with them while they put up with you."

But, when the trips are over, everybody is one big family with a special feeling for one another that will never be forgotten.

"In the end, we lived at night and slept on the bus during the day," Dwight remembers with a twinkle in his eye.

These 4-H exchange trips, however, are only one of the many significant experiences which Dwight feels 4-H has to offer.

Another is state days competition.

I could go out for states for the rest of my life," Dwight announces with an abundance of enthusiasm. Then, realizing the impact of his statement, he withdraws a slight bit and says with a smile, "Well, maybe not for the rest of my life, but I will miss it after I'm out."

Although he has been to states three times - twice for livestock judging and once for meats judging - and has enjoyed himself immensely each time, Dwight finds it difficult to express his sentiments on the subject.

"I think states are just one of those things you have to experience to really know the good feeling you get about them," he says. The closest he can come to explaining the aura of states is the close comradeship felt between the county members.

"You all sit together and root for each other," and by the time you're done, you have a really great feeling about each other," he explains. The rivalry between counties at this level is really strong, but according to Dwight, it is fun and it adds a special flavor to those few days of competition.

"It gets to the place that you say, 'I don't care what happens just as long as we beat that county' ", grins Dwight.

This kind of rivalry is important, as is all competition in the organization.

"With the free enterprise system the way we have it now," he explains, "competition gives you initiative, and initiative is what makes you achieve."

Dwight Houser, Lampeter, shows some of his feeder pigs that are part of the farrowing operation which he and his brother run as a partnership.

And, Dwight has found out, the more you achieve in 4-H, the easier it is to get a start in the world of business.

"When I went to get backing to start with my own farrowing operation, the bankers said, 'We know how well you did in 4-H and FFA,' and they backed me without any trouble," he explains.

To continue his thoughts, Dwight adds, "If you're interested and active in 4-H or FFA, they know you're not a quitter and that you have goals, and that you won't stop until you meet them."

To prove his point, Dwight notes that 4-H is not a moneymaking project.

If you have a steer, you're always putting out money trying to get a good animal, and often times you pay a lot more than market price." Of

Chester 4-H'ers take sheep titles

WEST CHESTER, Pa Several Chester County 4-H members won honors at the Fifth Annual Southeast Pa 4-H Sheep Show held recently at the Kimberton Fair Grounds, Kimberton, Pa Billy MacCauley was named first place junior showman well as showing champion Suffolk ram and taking first place in the junior division of the blocking contest, which was held as the last event of the show

In the Dorset competition, Jeff Baroni of Downingtown and his sister Ann, swept the ram competition showing champion and reserve champion rams, respectively Ann Baroni also exhibited champion ewe and took first place in the senior blocking competition

The Hampshire show found David Lytle showing champion ram as well as the reserve champion ewe

In the Shropshire competition, Eddie Connell showed champion ram lamb while Allan Soulliard of Steeleville showed the champion ewe

In the cheviot division, John Arrell of Lincoln University, exhibited champion and reserve champion ewe

Approximately 50 4-H members representing Montgomery, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, and Berks counties participated in the show Members in the sheep project receive instruction from Eugene Liesau, Spring City, Angelo Baroni, Downingtown; Mr. and Mrs. Warn G. Menhennett, Cochranville; Mrs. William Myer, West Grove, and Mrs. Robert Ambler, Cochranville, volunteer leaders who donate their time to this youth activity. Further information about the 4-H program may be secured from any 4-H leader or by contacting the Cooperative Extension Service Office.

First place senior blocker was Ann Baroni of Downingtown (left), and taking first place in the junior division was Billy MacCauley (right) of Newtown Square course, Dwight notes everyone else in the club has that same objective, so no matter how hard you work on a steer or no matter how much you pay for it, you still are up against stiff competition. And only one person can have the champion and take champion prices.

Dwight Houser

"So, in a sense, you're out to beat your neighbor," explains Dwight, "but that's what make the agriculture in this country so productive - the harder you work the more you achieve."

At present, Dwight is living his philosophy on his father's farm right outside Lampeter. He graduated in 1975 from Lampeter Strasburg High School at which time he started milking cows for a neighbor. That only lasted about six months because he liked being one his own, so he began a farrowing operation. Then, this April he went into partnership with his brother on this end of the business. At present, they have the operation built up to about 130 sows.

"In the future - the long range future - I hope to buy land of my own and go into farrow to finish," discloses Dwight. For now, however, he runs his operation and helps his father, Wilbur Houser, who is a DHIA inspector.

Dwight's interest in swine came from a family interest in the animals which he cultivated with a swine project in Garden Spot Community Club. A long-time member of the club, he has had swine projects, strawberry projects, sweet corn, vegetable crops, and handyman projects. He also had rabbits one year.

"I didn't do real great on the rabbits or handyman," Dwight explains. "In handyman, I was too practical. I thought the idea was to make things that would come in handy, so I made necessary things, and in competition all the other guys had fancier, prettier projects, he laughs.

But, his swine projects were a different story, and one time he discovered that one of the three pigs he had for his project was a gilt, so he "pested" his dad to keep the gilt and breed her, and that's how he got his start.

Dwight was also a member of the 4-H Beef and Sheep Club from the age of 9 until 1975.

"If I've done well in livestock judging up to this time, most of the credit has to go to Max Smith and the training I received in 4-H," says Dwight.

Having been a member of the large county-wide beef club and a smaller community club, Dwight has the advantage of knowing the good and bad points of each.

"I personally can't think of a whole lot of bad points for either, especially the smaller club," he says, "but, in a larger club it is sometimes hard to get people cooperating together." His experience as game leader has taught him that. In the community club it was easy to get a game of volleyball, or any type of cooperative interaction, going, but it is tougher in a large club. Yet, these are very small problems.

"Basically, 4-H is great because it can do so much for you," says Dwight. "It gets you out among new people, gives you new perspectives, and helps to give you initiative. But, you only get out of it what you put in. I put in a lot in the past two years, and I'm really going to miss it."

Horse breeding show results announced

KIMBERTON, Pa. - Barbara Wadsworth of the Pottstown Circle 4-H Horse and Pony Club of Montgomery County, won champion senior showman and fitting contest, andher weanling Quarter Horse filly, "Spiffy" won reserve champion of the show at the regional 4-H Horse Breeding Show held recently at the Kimberton Fairgrounds. The show was open to any 4-H member in the Southeast Pennsylvania Region who was taking a horse production (breeding) project. Members could show weanlings, yearlings, two-year olds or brood mares that qualified according to 4-H rules.

Nancy Kadwill, Montgomery County agricultural agent and chairman for the show, announced the following winners: grand champion of the show: Pony of the Americas (filly of this year), "Raputtak's Wenonah" owned by Jennifer Corcoran, Shillington, Pa.; reserve champion: Quarter Horse (filly of this year) "Spiffy" owned by Barbara Wadsworth, Pottstown, Pa.; Appaloosa colt of this year: "Mighty Splitshot", Susan Kostenbader, Nazareth, Pa.; P.O.A. colt of this year: "C & CM'S St. Valentine", Douglas Corcoran, Shillington, Pa.; P.O.A. filly of this year: "Raputtak's Wenonah", Jennifer Corcoran, Shillington, Pa.

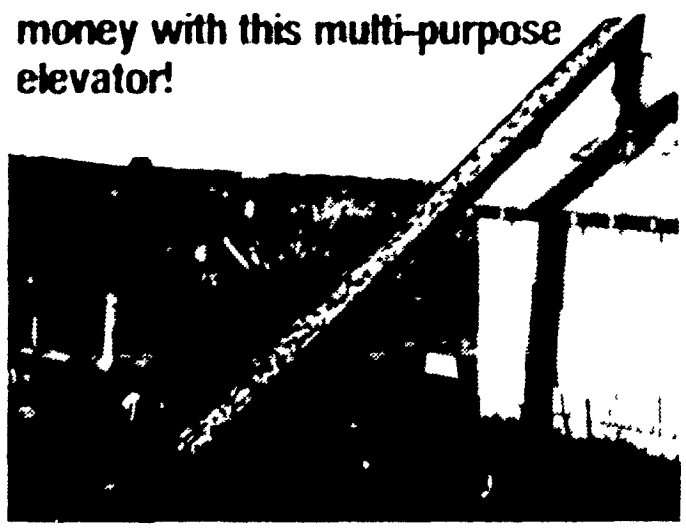
New Idea's Long-Reach Elevators

REACH! Get extra reach and save money with this multi-purpose elevator!



Take our word for it, this New Idea elevator will do the same job that longer (and more expensive) elevators do The way they've engineered and balanced the extra overhang beyond the wheels makes the important difference It raises and lowers quickly with a new, safer, easier-to-operate hand winch The deeply embossed areas around bolt holes and steel angles that overlap joints give it rigid, no-sag construction and extra long life. Additional strength is provided by formed stress plates welded to the bottom of each section Five lengths—31 to 51 feet. Choice of hoppers and drive. Written full year guarantee.

New Idea's Auger Elevators

Makes short work out of long reach jobs!

Get top quality in a balanced auger that has a unitized center drive section, fewer working parts and less maintenance. Easy to move, easy for one man to set up and operate.

Make short work of those long-reach jobs with capacity up to 2,600 bushels per hour. Choose 6″ or 8″ diameter auger, gasoline, electric or PTO drive, gravity or tilt hopper.

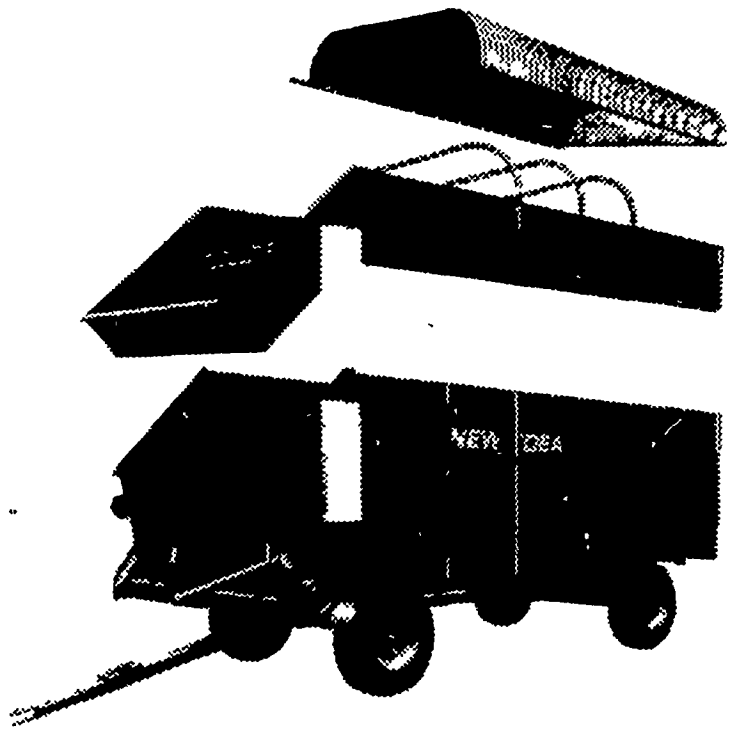
Pick the length for your operation . . . 35 to 60 feet, in wide, stable tread with heavy duty scissors design truck.

Its relatively low cost is a real smilemaker!

AVCO NEW IDEA FARM EQUIPMENT

We make your job a little easier.

New Idea's Forage Boxes



Two rugged boxes built to last.

New Idea's two big forage boxes—the 14-ft. and the 16-ft.—are both built to get the job done fast. Both are available with 2 or 3 beaters, and galvanized roof. The 16″ diameter beaters have staggered teeth, to give a waterfall effect, delivering a more uniform feed to the cross auger. The 16″ diameter cross auger means you get smooth, positive unloading without chains, slats, bearings, or idlers. In all, these attractively priced boxes are built to bring your crops in—fast.

Food prices rise

HARRISBURG, Pa - In a six-month period, from February through July, retail food prices rose an average of 18 cents in Pennsylvania for 15 "shopping bag" items, according to a supermarket survey report disclosed today by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

The average state shopping bag cost rose from $9 38 in February to $9 56 in July, according to the report prepared by the department's Bureau of Rural Affairs The highest average price was recorded in May at $9 58

Overall, the six-month state shopping bag average was $9 41, compared to $9 72 for the previous six month average

In a breakdown of seven regions in the Commonwealth, the highest average for February through July was recorded in the northeast at $9 74 The lowest average was in the southeast central area at $9 20

Products which basically increased in price over the six months were canned peaches fresh pears, coffee, and ground beef Products which decreased in price were cabbage, shortening, cornflakes, whole chickens, eggs, and American cheese Several products which followed no basic trend during the six months were potatoes, canned corn, bread, sugar and toilet paper

During the six months, shoppers in urban stores enjoyed a five per cent savings over shoppers in rural stores The six-month average of urban shopping bag items cost $9 26, or 46 cents less than the $9 72 average in rural stores

A comparison of prices between storebrand and namebrand was made with nine of the 15 shopping bag items During the six months, storebrand items averaged $5 88, compared with $6 45 for namebrand items for a spread of close to nine per cent

Beef show winners repeat last year's performance

MANHEIM, Pa - Nothing came new to the winners of the 4-H and FFA beef show held at the Manheim Fair on Wednesday evening The three top winners - grand champion over all 4-H champion, FFA champion, and champion showman - were all repeats from the year before

Grand champion over all and 4-H champion was a Charolais-Angus cross [illegible] to Linda Good, [illegible] R2 Linda, the daughter of Mr and Mrs Paul Good, has been showing steers for several years now and with this title has racked up her third win at Manheim

She gives the credit for picking the top steers to her father "My father has always said he likes to pick them but they are ours from then on," explains the 19 year-old brownette. This particular animal came from a load of western steers. Her father finishes about 600-700 head a year.

Although she has showed at Harrisburg in past years, Linda doesn't know if she will go there this year or not."I think I'll feed him for round up," she explained, "but, six weeks is about his limit, and not Farm Show." Linda's brother, Tim, was another repeat from the year before. Both times he was FFA grand champion. This year he showed a Charolais-Angus cross just as his sister did. According to Tim, the difference between the animals which gave Linda's steer the edge over his was the size - his was too large."I picked him out of a pen of about 30," explains Tim, "and, when I picked him, he was a bigger, growier steer."

The judge, Henry Gruber,. New Tripoli R2, head buyer for A & B Packing in Allentown, explained his choice of the top animal.

"Right now we like taller cattle, and we especially like longer animals from the last rib back with a lot of length in the loin area," he said. Gruber also pointed out that he was searching for an animal with a long rump and full round. In his estimation the grand champion most nearly fit the description. The reserve champion, he said, was a little younger and not as far along as the champion, but was meaty as well.

While the eight-year showman basically repeated his performance of last year, there was one slight change. This year he did not receive reserve champion overall as he had done previously.

Instead, the reserve champion title went to Debra Kreider, Manheim R5, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kreider. Debra, however, was not on hand to

The champion and reserve champion of the 4-H and FFA beef show at the Manheim Fair on Wednesday were 4-H steers belonging to Linda Good, Lititz R2, and Debra Kreider, Manheim R5. Linda had the grand champion and Debra had the reserve grand champion. While the judging was taking place, however, Debra was busy promoting milk in the Manheim parade as Lancaster County's dairy princess Gary Eberly, Denver R2, (left) showed the animal for her.

see her animal named reserve champion Instead she was taking part in the parade as dairy princess for Lancaster County Gary Eberly, Denver R 2 showed her steer for her

Ken Brubaker, 2418 Harrisburg Pike, Lancaster, was named senior showman This is Ken's third time, at least, for taking the showmanship title although he has lost track through the eight years he's been showing

Ken's secret to success is really no secret He says it takes a lot of practice and experience to become a top showman

I show cattle all year round for Conrad Grove in Chester County, he explains, 'and I get around to a lot of shows' By doing this, Ken gets both practical experience and tips from other showmen and breeders

There are a lot of tips on showing a champion steer,' says Ken, 'but, the most important thing is to get out and practice to get the knowledge"

Ken's sister, Sara, was second place senior showman

Other showmanship results were Bernie Gish, third place senior showman, Lee Witmer, first place junior showman, George Metzler, second place junior showman, and Becky Lefever, third place junior showman

Area fish tested for poison

HARRISBURG Samples of fish tested in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia areas have shown tolerable levels of pesticides and heavy metal poisons, it was announced recently by Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Raymond J Kerstetter

The department's Bureau of Foods and Chemistry is also examing samples of fish at markets in the Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Erie, Lancaster, and York areas, and will publish its findings in about three weeks, according to Kerstetter

Bureau laboratory technicians have been analyzing fin and shell fish from wholesale markets in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia areas since February for traces of kepone, polychlorinated biphenyls, lead and mercury

Kerstetter explained that the investigation was triggered after the James River in Virginia was polluted by kepone dumped by a subsidiary of Allied Chemical in Hopewell Va Subsequently, the governor of Virginia closed the river to oyster harvesting

It was feared that kepone contamination would spread to the major fishing bays along the eastern seaboard "That's why we began sampling fish coming into the Pennsylvania markets," said Kerstetter

In the Philadelphia area, samples of clams, blue fish, and flounder were tested The levels of kepone, polychlorinated biphenyls, lead, and mercury were all found to be well below the tolerances allowed by the Federal Drug Administration

Similar results were found in the Pittsburgh area on tests of sea bass, butterfish, flounder, blue fish, salt water cod, sea trout, croaker and spots

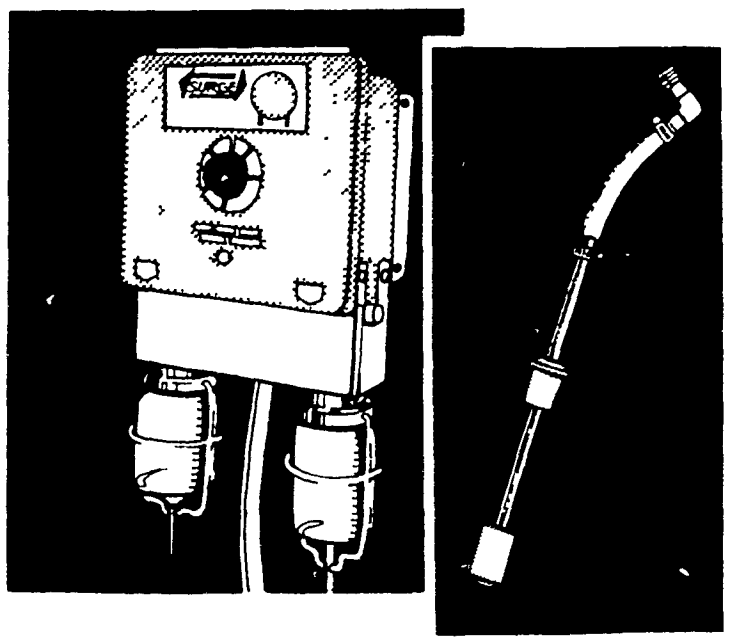
Surge could save you up to 250 man hours a year...



HERE'S A FEW FACTS ON THE SURGE AUTOMATIC TANK WASHER

If you've always thought you'd like a Surge Automatic Tank Washing System but thought it was something you couldn't afford, look at the facts:

1. Whether you do the cleaning yourself or your help does it, someone has to spend upwards to 250 hours a year just cleaning your milk tank. Time that could be used in more productive ways.
2. The Surge Turbo-Spray washer not only makes the job easier, but does it better as well. Seven distinct automatic cleaning cycles to keep bacteria counts down and your system ready for the most critical inspection.

This rugged automatic washer adapts to almost any tank up to 1500 gallons in capacity.

Land use one of major issues at State Grange convention

HARRISBURG, Pa. Land use policies and the confusing language of legislation are two of the major issues that will concern delegates to the 104th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Grange to be held in Sharon October 25-28.

Other important issues to be placed before the delegates will include the graduated income tax question, the state's institutional farms, new certification and registration of users of pesticides that are scheduled to become effective next year, the fire ant and killer bee problems, and crop damage caused by deer and other wildlife.

The policy making sessions of the Grange, however, will focus attention on the problems of land use by the nation's growing population, with particular emphasis on the necessity of preserving agricultural land.

"The continuing loss of productive farmland in the United States is a matter of serious concern," said J. Luther Snyder, master of the State Grange. "In the last 25 years - between 1950 and 1975 - the nation lost 117.3 million acres of farmland. In the same period, population increased by 64.3 million persons.

"On a per capita basis in 1950 there were 1.98 acres of farmland for every man, woman and child in the nation.

"Last year the average was 5.04 acres, and we must ask ourselves how much longer these trends can continue without endangering the food supply of the American people. And how can we be expected to help the hungry people of other nations if we continue to divert productive land to other uses?

"It is imperative that we develop a wise land use policy that will best meet the needs of all our people."

Among other major issues to come before the delegates is a resolution calling for the State Legislature to take steps to simplify the language of legislation and assure adoption of laws that are "clear, readable and understandable."

The resolution cites a 39-year-old law that allows writers of legislation to insert words and phrases almost at will. As a result, the resolution contends, complex language and extreme wordiness has led to confusion, misunderstanding, and misinterpretation of many laws.

The resolution is one of about 100 that will be considered by legislative, dairy, agriculture, and constitution and by laws committees of the state Grange organization. The committees will submit reports and recommendations to delegates for their action during the convention.

Policy making in the State Grange begins at the local or subordinate Grange level, Snyder pointed out. Resolutions that are proposed and adopted by subordinate Granges then go to the Pomona - or county - Grange for approval. Those that are approved are sent to the State Grange for consideration at the annual meeting. Business sessions of the convention will be held in the West Middlesex High School auditorium.

Matches forbidden

The Federal Aviation Administration recently warned air travelers that it is both dangerous and illegal to carry loose book matches in their luggage.

The agency said the matches could ignite in a suitcase and start a smoldering fire that could ruin travelers' personal belongings. Moreover, there always is the danger of a small fire becoming a large one or triggering an explosion on an aircraft in flight.

Persons who carry loose book matches in their carry-on or checked luggage also are subject to fines for carrying hazardous materials on board an aircraft in violation of FAA regulations.

The FAA said that twice in recent months it has received reports of matches starting fires in luggage. Others may have been started and gone unreported, it added.

Sullivan said the FAA classifies matches as hazardous because the heads are flammable solid. They can be legally carried on aircraft only when they are tightly packed in a closed container within the suitcase. The penalty for violation of the regulation is a fine of up to $10,000. If criminal intent can be proved, the maximum penalty is a $25,000 fine, five years in prison, or both.

IF YOU ARE NOT ALREADY COVERED BY A PENSION OR RETIREMENT PLAN, A NEW LAW NOW ALLOWS YOU TO SET UP A TAX-SHELTERED PLAN OF YOUR OWN.

Let Us Plan Your individual retirement account

The Congress of the United States passed the Pension Reform Act which allows millions of Americans who have not had the benefits of a pension plan, to put aside tax-free dollars for their retirement.

Basically, under this new law you can take money you earn now...up to $1,500 a year... and put it away for retirement while deducting it from your earnings at income tax time. The interest accrued each year is tax deferred.

At First Federal the interest rate will always be the highest we pay. But if interest rates change, the rate on your IRA account will be automatically adjusted.

Visit any of our five offices for free literature that explains this tax-saving opportunity in detail. Learn how you can use a savings account to enjoy more security in your retirement years and pay less taxes right now. It's very easy.

If you're not already saving with us, maybe the time has come.

Club reorganizes

EAST GREENVILLE, Pa. - The Macoby Creek 4-H Community Club will hold its fall re-organizational meeting on Monday, October 11, at the home of Mrs. Leona Kramer, Spring Hill Farm, East Greenville R1. The club welcomes any boy and girl between the ages of 8 to 19 to join the group.

Projects that are to be offered this year include dairy goats, cooking steer and swine projects, possible crafts and the popular horse project. You do not need to own a horse to take the project, but must have just a desire to learn about horses and their care. Instruction is free in all programs and project books are given without charge to 4-H members. Many opportunities are available to 4-H'ers such as field trips, workshops, fairs, shows, awards programs, summer camping and much more. Members can also apply for scholarships and a chance to attend county, state, and national functions in such places as Penn State University, Washington, D.C., and Chicago.

Anyone interested in learning more about 4-H and the Macoby Creek Club should contact Mrs. Kramer at 679-7555 for details. Parents must accompany their children to the first meeting.

MUELLER FRE-HEATER™

EXPLANATION OF THE REVOLUTIONARY NEW MUELLER "FRE-HEATER™" FOR THE DAIRY FARM

Bulk milk coolers on modern dairy farms remove heat from the milk promptly after it is produced To accomplish this requires refrigeration machines and they are generally of the air-cooled type Air-cooled condensing units literally "throw away" this valuable heat

On these same farms, large amounts of hot water are needed for "prepping" the cows, washing the milk cooler, the pipeline milker, other equipment, and the milking parlor itself It is also advantageous to heat the cows' drinking water in winter

The Mueller Fre-Heater conserves energy and provides "free" hot water by capturing the heat now wasted!

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Rather than using noisy, dust-creating fans with fragile, dirt collecting air-cooled condensers, the refrigerant is routed to a specially designed condenser/heat exchanger and its heat is transferred to the water

A thermostatically controlled valve delivers 145° F water to the storage tank

In addition to the thermostatic valve, a mixing valve is provided to permit "prepping" temperature water .

Thus, the Fre-Heater delivers two temperatures of water — prepping and washing

Tests indicate the Fre-Heater consumes 10% less power than an air-cooled system . . . and you get Free Hot Water!

ELIMINATES REFRIGERATION SERVICE PROBLEMS!

The most common causes of slow cooling in bulk milk cooling systems are related to the air-cooled condenser

Three things which frequently reduce the efficiency are
1 Poor air circulation and recirculation
2 Fan motor failures
3 Dirty or clogged condenser fins

Air-cooled condensing units are generally installed out of doors in order to assure adequate air supply to the condenser This exposes the compressor to extreme ambient temperatures Starting problems and compressor failures have resulted and air-cooled condenser units are always noisy

The Fre-Heater eliminates these problems because:
- There is no air-cooled condenser
- The Fre-Heater is installed indoors
- There are no fans to generate noise
- The head pressure is very stable — assuring longer compressor life.
- There are no cold weather starting problems, plus

. . . the Fre-Heater conserves energy and produces Free Hot Water!

Save Energy and get FREE HOT WATER... with the revolutionary...

Insects and Diseases Like the Forests

Insects and diseases that attack trees are normal in a forest, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is only when their appetite for cellulose gets out of hand that epidemic destruction of timer stands takes place.

Wider Mobile Homes

There's a trend toward the production of wider mobile homes. The proportion of double-wide units has more than doubled between 1971 and 1975 according to a survey of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Developmen

Meat production up

HARRISBURG - Red meat production in Pennsylvania during August 1976 increased 11 per cent from a year earlier, according to the Crop Reporting Service

Cattle slaughter at 85,500 head, was up six per cent, calves at 39,000, were up 15 per cent; hogs at 209,000 head, were up 22 per cent; but sheep and lambs at 12,400 head, were down 11 per cent from a year ago

Nationally, commercial red meat production in August was up 17 per cent from a year ago Cattle slaughter was up six per cent, hog slaughter was up 27 per cent, but calf slaughter was down five per cent. Sheep and lamb slaughter was down 10 per cent from a year ago

World Dairy Exposition visited

By DIETER KRIEG

MADISON, Wis - As the Boeing 707 jetliner sat on the ground at Harrisburg's International Airport, clouds loomed overhead and rain was falling Approximately 25 farmers and A.I. representatives from various parts of Pennsylvania and Maryland were on board to see what is annually billed as one of the greatest exhibitions of dairy cattle in the world - the World Dairy Exposition in Madison, Wis.

Six youths from two Lancaster County high schools - Solanco and Ephrata - were among a group who visited the World Dairy Exposition last wekk. Left to right, they are: Bruce Kreider, Sam Long, and Ron Clark, all of Solanco, and Curtis Martin, Sheryl Bollinger, and John Weidler of Ephrata. Accomplished judges of dairy cattle, they were accompanied by their coaches, Dr. William Fredd, Solanco and Lew Awres, Ephrata.

The four-engine jet screamed down the wet runway and climbed above the clouds. Shortly thereafter the plane's passengers could see sunshine again - something the folks back home had to do without for the next four days.

Record-breaking heat (as high as 96 degrees Fahrenheit) awaited the group, which was guided by American Breeders Service, DeForrest, Wis. On the intinerary were visits to the ABS facilities in the Nation's "Dairyland" and attending the shows and a sale at the Expo.

Although the World Dairy Exposition had nearly 500 fewer cattle entered than its Eastern counterpart - the Pennsylvania All-American, which was held just a week earlier in Harrisburg, this show possibly carried a little more prestige. Visitors at the five-day event included hundreds of foreigners. The Japanese and West Germans appeared to be most prominent among those from overseas, with the latter taking up an entire Greyhound bus to themselves. At the "World Premier" Holstein Sale on Friday night, it was announced that between 30 and 40 countries were in the audience which numbered over 7000. It was reported to be the largest crowd ever gathered for a sale. A separate story on the sale appears elsewhere in this issue.

Among the highlights of the visit to the ABS facilities was a look into the cattle breeders' version of "Fort Knox." More than 2½ million ampules of semen were stored in the building. Taking an average price of $10 per ampule, the semen represented a value of $25 million.

The Pennsylvania-Maryland group was just one of many which came here through the ABS-sponsored tour. The various parties were shown through the bull stud facilities, including barns which were built 14 years ago "to be 20 years ahead of their time."

Among the bulls introduced were several from Pennsylvania herds, including those of J. Mowery Frey, Jr., Willow Street; Kenneth Mowry, Roaring Springs; and Jim High, Lancaster.

A few herds from Lancaster Farming's prime coverage area were represented at the Expo, where more than $35,000 of prize money was being offered. Two of the more prominent herds were those of John Rinehart, Littlestown, Pa., and Kennard Henley, Cochranville, Pa.

George Blaska, president of the World Dairy Expo, noted that this - the tenth anniversary - was the biggest and best Dairy Expo to take place at the modern facilities of the Dane County Exposition Center. A dairy farmer himself, he pointed out that this year's cattle also represented a higher quality of animals than ever before. The Expo hosted the National Guernsey Show and three Central National events.

Filled with commercial exhibits, as is common at most fairs and agricultural shows today, Blaska revealed that $71,000 worth of space was sold. In addition there was an entry fee of $12 for each head of cattle.

With 1300 head entered in the big event, it was nearly 500 short of the number of bovines entered at the Pennsylvania All-American the week before. The corwds, however, appeared to be equal in size, and possibly even bigger.

ACA Farm Line

Ford and Carter representatives to answer

WASHINGTON, D C - Top level representatives of both President Ford and Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter will man the expanded Agriculture Council of America's October 'Farm Line" entitled "Decision '76 "

Richard Lyng, director of the Farmers for Ford Committee and P R "Bobby" Smith, chairman of the Carter-Mondale Food and Agriculture Committee will head teams of spokesmen representing both candidates who will hear comments from all parts of the country on major farm issues Officials of the Democratic and Republican National . Committees also will participate as each party will man an equal number of ACA WATS lines throughout the program.

ACA has doubled the Farm Line's normal operation time from four to eight hours Anyone can express an opinion on this timely topic by calling ACA's toll-free number (800-424-3510) on Wednesday, October 13, between noon and 8 p m E D T

'The objective of the program is to enable rank and file producers to speak directly with influential decision makers about their views on important farm issues", commented ACA chairman-elect, Dale Hendricks, who is also chairman of ACA's Issues Identification Committee

"This is a good way to help put farm issues exactly where they belong - high on the list of national priorities regardless of who wins the election " added Dale Hendricks, a dairyman from Bloomfield, Iowa

'The views and positions expressed and discussed in this program will be strictly those of the participant's - not ACA's," Hendricks emphasized 'We are only providing this as a means of affording the individual at the local level an opportunity to express his views to top decision makers at the national level "

The non-political and non-legislative ACA operates the monthly Farm Line series to provide a forum for the discussion of important agricultural issues Earlier programs have covered topics such as "Estate Taxes", Government Regulation", 'Land Use', and 'Drought Problems " ACA WATS lines were busy from the beginning of each program as callers talked directly with experts on the subject

ACA suggests that people reaching a busy signal, place a call later during the Farm Line's extended hours of operation

The Agriculture Council of America, founded in 1973, is made up of individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply the farmers Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers

Outlook meeting slated

NEW HOLLAND, Pa. - The Garden Spot Adult Farmer Program will sponsor an educational meeting for all interested farmers on October 12 to examine the outlook for livestock, milk, grain, and feed prices for the coming year. With depressed market prices for cattle and hogs, and uncertain grain and feed prices, some tips from people in daily contact with prices can be valuable information for any farmer planning his livestock or dairy program.

The meeting will be a panel discussion with a question and answer period to follow. Panel members will include: Bill McCoy, Lancaster Stock Yards; Abe Diffenbach, New Holland Sales Stables; Jim Sumner, Inter-State Milk Producers; Dr. Thomas Culton, Pennfield Feeds; and Miles Thomas, commodity account executive from Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith.

The meeting will be held in the agriculture classroom of the Garden Spot High School beginning at 7:45 P.M. Panel members will be sharing what factors they feel are effecting the markets and what effect this will have on prices in the coming year.

Arboretum Enlarged

The National Arboretum, located in the Washington, D.C. area has just acquired an additional 33 acres. Plans include a new visitor's center, classrooms, conservatory, exhibit hall, outdoor plantings demonstrating the origins and development of cultivated plants, and expanded public service facilities for eating and parking, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Communiation.

introducing the all new
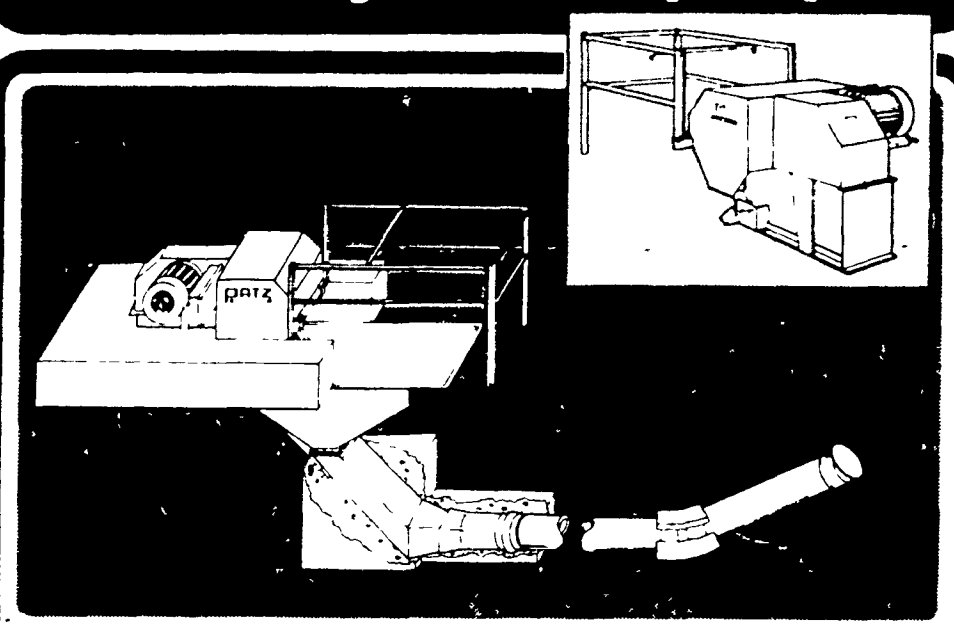
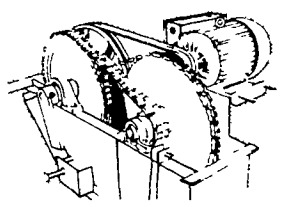
slurry manure pump

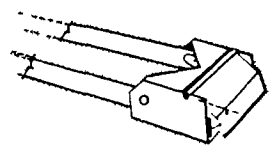


The Patz Slurry Manure Pump provides the ultimate solution to the moving of slurry liquid manure from dairy, beef, hogs or poultry installations to manure storage facilities.

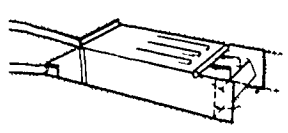
The new Patz Slurry Pump can move slurry and liquids up to 150 feet. The manure is supplied to an underground hopper with a gutter cleaner or scraper and is forced into a 12 inch P.V.C. pipe by means of an 8 inch by 15 inch plunger.



The Patz exclusive roller chain drive unit drives the plunger at a rate of 21 strokes per minute.



The 8 inch by 15 inch plunger forces the manure through a PVC pipe to storage facility.



Plunger sleeve can be removed from sleeve chamber for servicing without breaking out concrete.

Crop report issued

HARRISBURG The cloudy skies and rain which settled over the eastern half of the state during the week ending October 2, increased the soil moisture supplies to adequate and surplus levels, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Rreporting Service Soil moisture is now rated two-thirds adequate and one third surplus with central counties reporting mostly surplus levels

The week was generally too wet for potato digging and the potato crop is now rated at 69 per cent complete, only one per cent more than last week Last year at this time, 58 per cent of the crop was harvested Quality and yield reports indicate a very good 1976 crop

The state's corn crop continued to push toward maturity last week Corn for grain is now eight per cent in dough 51 per cent dented and 36 per cent mature, with five per cent harvested Some frost damage was reported, but the crop is still in good condition overall Harvest of ensilage corn is now about 56 per cent complete, roughly equal to last year

Fall plowing came to a standstill last week due to the wet field conditions Barley is 77 per cent sown, slightly ahead of last year's progress Wheat is 50 per cent planted, equal to last year at this time

The amount of feed being obtained from pastures is slightly above average for this time of the year The quality of hay made last week was rated mostly fair Third cut of alfalfa is now 90 per cent done while 50 per cent of the fourth cut is complete Clotim second cut is now 94 per cent done

Harvesting of tobacco is now rated 97 per cent complete Last year's crop was 92 per cent cut by this time

The apple harvest is well underway Excessive moisture caused splitting in some varieties Grapes are in excellent condition, and harvest has recently begun Cabbage, pepper and tomato volume is decreasing while pumpkins and squash are appearing in heavy volume on the fresh market

Maryland tobacco exports equal two tankers of oil

ANNAPOLIS Md Maryland tobacco growers during fiscal year 1976 saw 4 9 million pounds of their Type 32 tobacco shipped overseas which accounted for $7 193 000 in export income for the nation

However, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D Hance, who has grown up with tobacco, says there is another way of looking at the export volume dollar value statistics for tobacco

'The tobacco from Maryland farms exported during fiscal year 1976 equals 553 307 barrels of foreign oil Hance said That's about enough oil to load two average size tankers overseas and get the oil transported back to the United States and pumped off the ships Foreign crude oil now costs about $13 per barrel delivered on the East Coast Each barrel is 42 gallons

Mite control may boost apple crops

HARRISBURG - Apple growers will be able to cut production costs because of a research project, begun several years ago by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, that has paid off

Called an 'Ecological Approach to Mite Control,' the project's results were viewed recently during a tour of a few Snyder County apple orchards by Secretary Raymond J Kerstetter and some staff members of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry

"For a number of years," Kerstetter explained, "we have been aware that farmers may have become too dependent on the use of pesticides Natural enemies should also be used in the battle against fruit-damaging pests"

The project, which began in 1971 with research funds allocated through Harness Racing proceeds and continued through April, 1976 with additional federal funds, aimed to develop a system to monitor pest population in orchards. When a particular pest population outgrew the control of its biological enemies, then pesticides were brought into play.

Kerstetter estimated that the monitoring system, to be operated by private consultants, will cut pesticide costs by half for apple growers This will also have a side benefit of lessening the dangers of pollution

Currently, 1500 acres of apple orchards are under the supervision of a private consultant trained through thedepartment's mite control project Most of the acreage is in Adams County The orchards in Snyder County toured by Kerstetter are also under the consultant's supervision

Mites have been one of the major problems of apple growers To combat them, orchards had been sprayed on the average of every seven to ten days from April through the summer months. Through research, various natural enemies of mites have been identifiedd which can be manipulated in a pest management program to either reduce or eliminate the need for use of large amounts of pesticides to control the destructive mites.

Previously, according to Kerstetter, apple growers had been spending as much as $125 an acre for miticides. The orchards Kerstetter visited are now spending an average of $75 an acre, or half the dollar amount if inflation is taken into account. "And the yield and quality of the apples I saw was as good or better than I have seen on orchards that use pesticides constantly," said Kerstetter.

The secretary said he hoped more growers would become interested in this balanced approach at controlling mites. He added their interest would be matched by the deployment of more trained consultants.

Bicentennial farm

Paul Egan keeps family farm and works away

By JUDY MITCHELL
Berks Co Reporter

LEESPORT, Pa - A stone marker on the Paul S Egan family's large farmhouse still clearly bears the date of its construction in 1764 and the initials of its original owners, Mathias and Marie Weber The Webers are ancestors of Paul's mother, Mrs Calvin (Katie) Egan, and are the first recorded settlers of the farm in Leesport R1

Paul says that quite an assortment of names appear on the old documents and deeds, which have been preserved over the years and are now kept in a safe deposit box, because the farm was not always passed down through direct descendency. Although at times the ties were distant, he explains, the family was able to maintain ownership of the farm from its beginning to the present.

Although carefully preserved and adapted to modern living, the basic structure of the Egan home remains unchanged after 212 years, and commenting on its solidity, Egan declares, "they don't make farmhouses today that will last over two hundred years."

The Egans' home is the only remaining structure on the farm that dates back to the original settlements, although a second house which stands not far from it bears the date 1817. The existing barn, Egan explains, was built in 1903, after the original barn was destroyed by fire.

Mr. and Mrs Paul S. Egan of Leesport R1 are pictured sitting in the kitchen of their 212-year-old farmhouse looking at the family's scrapbook.

Paul and his wife, June, purchased the family farm in 1950. At the time, Paul was employed at the Agway feed store in Leesport and the couple was renting a home. Paul remembers that they weren't really looking to buy a farm but a house. When the Egans bought the farm, however, they not only got the house they needed but also kept the farm in Katie Egan's family.

Paul, who was born and raised on an adjoining farm which his father worked until 1961, never did give up his job with Agway and is presently manager of the Agway feed store in Bernville; but he still manages to find time to work the 80-acre farm the Egans live on as well as a 74-acre nearby farm they also own In addition to the corn, wheat, oats, barley, and soy beans he grows, Egan feeds about 22 head of steer

Holstein staff shifted

BRATTLEBORO, Vt - Zane Akins has been named administrative assistant of Holstein-Friesian Association of America. In his new position, Akins will assume major responsibilities in management of the association and its subsidiary, Holstein-Friesian Services, Inc. Having been the manager and responsible for successful development of the Holstein Sire Development Service since 1973, Akins will continue those responsibilities until a replacement is named. The sire development service has assisted hundreds of breeders sample and market quality bulls under Akins' direction.

Akins' experience with the association includes seven years as program director in Wisconsin. Earlier, he had been associated with the A.I. industry. He also has managed the family registered Holstein herd.

A University of Missouri graduate, with a bachelor of science degree in dairy husbandry, Akins was the recipient of several college scholarships. While at the University of Missouri, he was the president of the dairy club, secretary of Agriculture Council and a member of the dairty judging team. He is also a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, serving as noble ruler while in college.

Akins, his wife Kay and their three children, Mike, Debbie and Christine, live in Newfane, Vermont.

Paul Egan

June, who was also born and raised on a farm, recalls many a night that the farm work kept her husband out till one or two o'clock in the morning For years she helped out, she says, "getting things ready for when Paul came home from work Ill health now keeps her from helping with the farm chores, June adds, but sons Dennis and Dale, lend a hand when they're able Both young men are still living at home but have outside jobs

Paul shrugs off an observation that keeping up a family tradition of farming while maintaining a second full-time job for as many years as he has is quite an accomplishment, but remarks that if the economics of farming don't unprove "sooner or later it will caatch up with us because no one is going to go into farming, then the people will really pay for their food "

Fire Losses Great

The daily average of property loss from fire in the United States is about 1,600 homes, 380 apartment buildings, 66 school and college buildings, 11 churches, 208 stores and offices, 53 restaurants, 111 industrial plants; and buildings on at least 70 farms

The Egan's house which remains basically unchanged after 212 years, is the only remaining structure on the farm which dates back to the original settlements

Dairyman heads Ford group

HARRISBURG - Drew Lewis, Pennsylvania Chairman of the President Ford Committee, announced this week the selection of Charles Benner, a dairy farmer from Middleburg, as chairman of the Pennsylvania Farm Families for Ford.

In making the announcement, Lewis stated that he was pleased "to have a respected agricultural leader like Charlie Benner head the President's farm campaign in the state. He will be a definite asset in communicating the Ford-Dole farm message to the farmers of Pennsylvania."

Benner is immediate past president of the Snyder County Pennsylvania Farmers Association and is a former president of the County Extension Association. He has also held office in the county Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Holstein Association, and the Northeastern Breeders Association.

Commenting on his selection, Benner said that "President Ford has made steady progress in cutting back on government spending to lighten the burden on the average taxpayer. That's important to the farmer"

Benner viewed the Democratic platform and candidate Jimmy Carter's agricultural policies as being "dangerous to farmer's independence because they would return us to the system of controlled agriculture we had in the past. President Ford has brought back the free enterprise system and has gotten government out of agriculture. We need to continue to fight to keep government out of our business. That is my philosophy, and I know it is shared by President Ford and Senator Dole."

Benner and his wife, Elaine, have three children, and are active in the Salem Lutheran Church where Benner is superintendent of the Sunday School.

Kerstetter warns of waiving prompt payment rights

HARRISBURG, Pa. - Agriculture Secretary Raymond J. Kerstetter this week urged cattlemen selling slaughter livestock not to waive their rights for prompt payments under the new amendments to the Packers and Stockyards Act.

"Recently," Kerstetter said, "the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921 was amended to guarantee livestock producers payment by packers no later than the close of the business day following the transfer of possession. Unfortunately, the amendment permits the producer to waive his right for immediate payment."

Kerstetter further explained that if a producer waives his right for immediate payment, he also waives his rights under the trust provision. This means if a packer were to go bankrupt, the producer who signed the waiver would be ineligible to receive payment out of the funds specifically set aside under the trust provison for his protection.

The trust provision directs, in case of packer bankruptcy, that livestock, meat, accounts receivable, and proceeds from sale of meat be held in trust for the benefit of unpaid cash sellers of livestock. The trust and prompt payment provisions went into effect upon signing of the amendments September 13 by President Ford.

When the new amendments were being considered, Kerstetter in March had written the Pennsylvania congressional delegation saying he favored the intent of the amendments but was concerned about the waiving of payment rights in the amendments. He said a new bill was essential but the inclusion of voluntary waiving rights could continue some of the abuses of the past.Specifically, buyers could play producers against each other, extracting delayed payment agreements which then pose the threat of huge losses to producers.

"Since the voluntary right to waive immediate payments has remained in the new law," said Kerstetter, "it is our job to warn producers that it is not in their best interests to exercise that right."

The new amendments also include packer bonding equivalent to two days' purchases of slaughter livestock. The bonding requirement will go into effect in about three or four months when new regulations are finalized.

The legislation was prompted by packer bankruptcies and losses to cattlemen who were not paid for cattle they delivered. Such losses in 1975 amounted to some $25 million.

Poultry up

HARRISBURG, Pa. - Poultry production in the commonwealth declined slightly during the week ending September 25, but maintained a pace ahead of last year, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth were 1,591,000, nine per cent below the previous week, but 17 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago.

Average placements during the past 10 weeks were 18 per cent above a year ago. In the 21 key poultry producing states, placements were 59,987,000. This figure is five per cent below the previous week but 10 per cent more than the same week in 1975.

Cattle industry spokesman advocates beef research

PITTSBURGH, Pa - "To me, a key to success in the cattle industry is research" Those are the words spoken by Victor M duPont, Region I vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, at the second of a series of six hearings on the proposed research and information order on beef.

DuPont, a cattle producer from Bluemont, Va , endorsed the order by calling for increased market research, nutrition and health research; product research and development, research on efficiency of beef production and distribution; and basic economic research.

"At present," he said, "the beef cattle industry spends only about $100,000 per year on research. This figure represents only one-two thousandths of one per cent of the cattle industry's annual sales of some $20 billion If we hope to see our product continue as one of the most important sources of protein in the American diet, we obviously are going to have to spend more on research"

DuPont outlined a few types of research which are needed, and which can be provided through the proposed beef order

Market research. DuPont pointed out that no private company would launch a major new product without first determing whether it met consumer wants and needs It is much better to let the consumer educate the cattlemen, than for cattlemen to make assumptions about how the consumer feels toward their product, he added

Research and development of new beef products. For example, the nation's female work force has grown by more than 42 per cent in the last 10 years This means that there are more working wives, more eating away from home, more interest in convenience foods Unless beef is a part of the new developments in food processing, packaging and distribution which all of this implies, we will find our markets eroding, commented duPont.

Research on beef, as it relates to human nutrition and health. The hypothesis that saturated animal fats and cholesterol cause heart disease has been shown to be wrong in numerous tests; also, there is evidence to counter the claim that beef consumption and certain types of cancer are linked. DuPont said that such statements clearly show the need for additional scientific research on all aspects of nutrition and health.

Additional research on production and animal health. At present, there are a number of competitive protein sources Without improved technology, our production efficiency will plateau, and we will find ourselves in a shrinking market over the longer term

Research which can improve food distribution. In the last few years, about 80 per cent of the total increase in average food prices has occurred after foods left the farm This is partly due to lagging or even declining productivity Unless new efficiencies are developed, the spread between farm and retail prices will continue to widen - and that's not good for cattlemen or consumers, added duPont.

Economic research With all the instability in the cattle market, we obviously need more research on all aspects of beef economics; and then a program to get that information out to cattle producers - large and small. DuPont said that perhaps this type of basic economic information can be one of the most important benefits of the proposed research and information program.

Cattlemen will have the opportunity to vote on the proposed producer referendum sometime next spring, following the six public hearings currently being held across the country.

Bull stud opens its doors

FREDRICK, Md Dr Clinton L Meadows a nationally known Extension dairy cattle breeding specialist from Michigan State University, has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at this year's sixteenth annual bull stud open house, set for Thursday (Oct 14) His topic will be Improving Herd Replacements Through A I "

A former manager of the Arkansas Artificial Breeders (1947-50), Dr Meadows holds academic degrees from Henderson State College (Arkansas), the University of Arkansas and Iowa State University This is the second time in five years that the professor will make an appearance at the open house

His honors include the DeLaval Extension Award for dairy production in 1975 from the American Dairy Science Association; the Distinguished Faculty Award in 1973 from Michigan State University, and the Outstanding Specialist Award in 1966 from the Michigan Extension Specialists Association.

The "transplanted Razorback has been manager for over a decade of the famed Kellogg Guernsey herd at Michigan State, and he has a reputation for practical, down to-earth suggestions and ideas"

This year s bull stud open house program will again begin at 10 a m in the traditional outdoor tent with the annual business meeting of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative, including election of directors

Dr Meadow s talk will follow from 11 to 11 45 a m , and the thirteenth annual meeting of the Maryland Dairy Shrine is scheduled from 11 45 to 12 15 p m

Barbecued chicken dinner will be served from 12 15 to 1 30 p m Then follows a 15-minute session for presentation of service awards to artificial insemination technicians employed by the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative

The day's activities will officially terminate with a parade of bulls from the Sire Power bull stud at Frederick and daughters of bulls from Sire Power bull studs at both Frederick, Md., and Tunkhannock, Pa. The parade will run from 1 45 to 2 45 p m

Additional optional events will include a demonstration of semen collection and an opportunity after the cattle parade - for further inspection of bulls and bull stud facilities

The bull stud open house site is located just north of Hansonville, west of U S highway 15 (Emmitsburg Pike), on the former hangar area of the old Frederick airport in central Frederick County It is six miles north of the Frederick Shopping Center along U S highway 15, or 10 miles south of the Sabillasville road interchange at Thurmont

All interested persons - both dairymen and beef producers - are invited to attend, according to W Lewis Campbell, general manager of the sponsoring Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative

The concurrent Dairy Shrine meeting this year will see honors bestowed on two veteran Old Line State dairy leaders - one living and one deceased according to John L Morris, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park Morris is Dairy Shrine secretary and one of the past honorees himself

Team places in Expo

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - The livestock judging team from Penn State University won first place recently at the Eastern States Exposition, West Springfield, Mass. The Penn State team was first overall and first in judging beef cattle and swine and third in judging sheep.

The top five members of the team were Keith Bard of Lewistown R 4; Al Cornman of New Wilmington R1; Diane Jordan of Greensburg; Lynn Sarla of 316 Woodlyn Drive, Collegeville; and Gregory Snyder of New Tripoli R1.

Al Cornman, senior in animal industry, was second highest individual in the overall competition and captured first place in judging beef cattle and in giving oral reasons for beef cattle. He placed fifth in swine selection.

Diane Jordan, senior in animal science, placed third in the entire contest and ranked fourth in judging swine. Keith Bard, senior in animal industry, ranked second in swine selection and first in swine oral reasons.

Computerized machinery seen in agricultural crystal ball

By ROBERT H TWEEDY
Allis Chalmers Corp

Try to envision one huge machine running in a field of wheat that is precision planting a second crop at the same time it is harvesting The machine could be made of new super-metals and have a computer controlled automated operator station with the precision of modern day manufacturing machine tools in all its operations It would have high productivity and would reduce unit production cost to a fraction of present expenses

That one machine might be representative of what we may see in American agricultural equipment in the year 2026 A closer look into the crystal ball may reveal other changes for tomorrow's farmer

During the next 50 years, a majority of farm owners and managers will have been university trained, and be very knowledgeable users of computers For by that time, computers will probably play a leading role in farm production Farmers should be able to tie in to computers for considerably more information than is possible today, to obtain everything from commodity marketing data to crop requirements for quantity and type of fertilizer, or the specifics of machinery investment Planting and harvesting will be accomplished by machinery with computer-type controls. Production and inventories may be managed by a professional farm manager who can tie all the data together, and with his experience, produce far more per acre than programs of the 1970's could possibly hope for.

And what about the family farm? Most will continue relatively unchanged Others will be family corporations or partnerships representing a highly integrated food production source For some farms, this may even mean the product will be sold as packaged food such as wrapped meats, frozen vegetables or canned fruits

A significant percentage of the field machinery needs may be filled similar to the need for processing equipment-by contract purchase of custom manufactured machinery built to order We see some of this today in vegetable planting and harvesting machinery, such as lettuce harvesters Contract fabrication of farm machinery may well account for a large dollar volume industry segment, concurrent with equipment built for dealer stock similar to today's tractors and implements.

This equipment will have very high reliability, minimum daily service needs, very high productivity, higher operating speeds, a high level of operator comfort and convenience, be built of stronger and more resilient materials, have more sophisticated engineering designs compared to today and probably average 400 to 500 horsepower per unit

There will be an increase in large farms, completing the trend that is already underway There will also probably be increased use around the world of synthetic meats and animal products increased relative consumption of crop products compared to animal products, greater dependency on farm chemicals, rigid control of farm pollution, routine control of water and soil erosion, protective coverings over fields for complete environmental control, climate control, harvesting protein from green plants, concentrated farming of non-traditonal agriculture products such as fish and single cell organisms, and three crops per year on many farms

This all does not mean the end of agriculture as we know it today There could be two distinct groups of farmers One may be the integrated large farm described above The other probably will be the farms that grew out of the smaller farms we know today or resulted from the exodus of city people to farm areas This latter group will be composed primarily of those farmers who enjoy farming as a way of life and farm to be close to the land

In reality, farming and the agricultural community will not have changed that much The seeds for what is to come are already sprouting around us The farm of 2026 only awaits the time to grow and mature into a highly intensified and sophisticated complex that many farmers have been working toward, consciously or unconsciously, for quite some time

Diplomas awarded

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa - Alvin B. Esh of Intercourse and Peter A. Caldwell of Windsor, both field managers with Vigortone Products Company, recently received diplomas from the Vigortone Sales Management Institute held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Both completed an intensive one-week course of study involving livestock nutrition, product knowledge, territory management, and sales techniques. Art Swarzentruber, Vigortine's president, presented the men with diplomas.

The Dane County Exposition grounds, home of the World Dairy Expo, Madison, Wis.

An accomplished showman tells of:

Keys to success in the show ring

By DIETER KRIEG

MADISON, Wis. - Some people have a lot going for them in one thing or another, but what they lack is the determination to keep going after a succession of failures, says John Rinehart, a successful breeder and exhibitor of registered Holsteins. Consequently those individuals do not reach the level of recognition and achievement that someone else might have grasped.

Rinehart, who makes his home just south of the Pennsylvania border in Carroll County, Md., offered his philosophy of showing during a pause in his schedule at the World Dairy Exposition which took place here last week. In his fourth year at the internationally acclaimed show which is held here annually at the Dane County Exposition Center, Rinehart has had much success in the show ring. But he hasn't forgotten about the failures, and that's part of the formula to success, the 32-year old dairyman indicated.

A 1966 graduate of the University of Maryland, with a degree in dairy science, Rinehart remarked that the first step towards success is the establishment of a goal. Reaching the goal and overcoming obstacles requires tremendous determination, and an enthusiastic drive. "You can have an awful lot of knowledge," the young dairyman continued, "but you must apply it - you can't sit still and expect things to happen, you have to make them happen. And you must learn not to be too disappointed with failures - try to turn losses into success."

It is also important to remember, says Rinehart, that the idea of winning can be over emphasized. A showman should realize that his cow wouldn't necessarily have to stand first at every show. "Just do your best," added his wife, the former Sharon Lippy of Littlestown, Pa., who has won a number of ribbons in the 4-H circuit. "Attitude has an awful lot to do with it," Rinehart said.

Rinehart and his wife are consciencious fitters and showmen. As it became time to prepare one of their cows for an upcoming class, both went about their tasks with dedication and enthusiasm. Noticeably a bit nervous, Rinehart's large hands were almost trying to go to work without him. A dairy farmer - as opposed to a mere owner of dairy cattle - his hands offered a testimony all their own.

"Tying everything together," Rinehart concluded, "is a sincere trust in God and to realize, appreciate and understand where some of these things come from." His wife nodded in agreement

Not to be forgotten in the Rineharts' formula towards successful showing is good help back home, and confidence on the part of the employer that the work will be done well

sun even while he's absent Rinehart expressed satisfaction with the arrangements that had been made at home and acknowledged that he stays in touch daily over the phone The Rineharts have approximately 100 milking cows, and 250 head of Holsteins all told "It s a family operation," Mrs Rinehart said, we have one hired man and John's father helps out full-time too " A farm girl herself she expressed her dedication to the work and noted that she didn t come to the Expo until Thursday night because of having to help milk at home She grew up on a dairy farm in Adams County and frequently helped with both milkings She had never shown dairy cattle, however, until after she met her husband Prior to that all her show ring experiences involved beef cattle and hogs

Possibly the best known of the Rinehart cows is Dawfin a home-bred Apollo daughter which has captured a number of blue ribbons and was All-American as a 2-year old in 1974 She caught the judges' eyes at both the Pennsylvania All American last month in Harrisburg and the Central National Holstein Show, here In addition to her performance in the show ring, she holds the Maryland state records for milk and butterfat for 3-year olds Last year's lactation reads 365 days, 25,280 pounds of milk, 4 5 per cent test, and 1145 of fat Queried about the show circuit possibly hurting production, Mrs Rinehart brushed such a notion aside, assuring that "Dawfin" is so used to it that she feels right at home in make-shift barns away from home She did acknowledge, however, that they skip out of smaller shows in order to minimize the work, expenses, and strain involved in showing cattle They try for five major shows per year

Although Rinehart stepped into his father's dairy operation, both he and his wife remarked that the emphasis of the business has been changed considerably since the younger Rinehart took over What was once a commercial dairy, is now placing much more emphasis on pedigrees, the show circuit, and type as well as production The young couple is also interested in the sale of dairy cattle. They presently have two of their bulls at American Breeders Service, DeForest, Wis., and have another one at home which is being considered for service at two Pennsylvania studs Mrs Rinehart noted that they have sold quite a few breeding cattle to U.S and foreign buyers.

Aside from being successful as a dairy cattle exhibitor, Rinehart has won recognition as a judge He was on his college's dairy cattle judging team and also on a winning national 4-H team which rewarded him with a trip to England and international competition While closer to home, and as time permits, he occasionally serves as a judge for dairy shows

New tractors shown

HERSHEY, Pa - Farmers from Pennsylvania and three neighboring states tested a new line of International Harvester tractors here that featured a "control center" instead of a cab

IH officials estimated 1,000 farmers saw the feature designed to help boost productivity during a two-day show that ended Wednesday (September 22) The product introduction began Tuesday (September 21)

Highlighted at the Hershey Stadium here and then field tested at the nearby Hershey Farms were IH's new "Pro-Ag" line of model series 86 tractors The six new tractors come in the 85-160 PTO hp classes

Instead of the traditional cab, these are equipped with a "control center," IH officials said This is an integral part of the tractor in contrast to the add-on cabs of the past and has the latest in comfort, safety, and convenience of operation

The glass-and-steel enclosure is mid-mounted and located forward of the conventional design

According to IH officials, this feature is expected to permit operators to work longer hours with less fatigue and thereby resulting in greater productivity.

Also contributing to a farmer's efficiency is a set of warning lights in the enclosure that enables the driver to monitor such operations as brake wear, air pressure, and radiator coolant level.

New tractors and new equipment were shown and demonstrated by International Harvester dealers in Hershey last week

Nitrogen produced

NEWARK, Del. - Grow nitrogen this winter to fertilize next Summer's field corn. This is the advice of University of Delaware Extension agronomist Dr. William H. Mitchell. He says that tests conducted over the past few years at the University's Agricultural Experiment Station show that hairy vetch and crimson clover are among the best plants you can grow for a nitrogen producing cover crop. Both plants have nitrogen-fixing bacteria which live in nodules on their roots.

In these tests, an acre of hairy vetch was found to provide field corn with the equivalent of 100 pounds of nitrogen from the most popular fertilizer source-ammonium nitrate. Since about 85 per cent of the nitrogen fixed by vetch and crimson clover is located in the plants' top growth, it is important that seedings be made now so that they can make good growth before the arrival of cold weather.

Publication traces mushroom industry growth

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa - Research has played a major role in producing and processing cultivated mushrooms, it was stated recently in a special Bicentennial issue of "Science in Agriculture," the quarterly magazine of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State University The Bicentennial issue traces research achievements in several fields of agriculture

Dr Lee C. Schisler, professor of plant pathology, indicated that mushroom growers of Pennsylvania produce 58 per cent of the nation's supply of this delicate vegetable The eating of mushrooms in the U S has tripled since World War II, it was noted, from a half pound to 1-½ pounds per person each year

The first research to control insect pests on mushrooms was begun in 1925 by C A Thomas, the article pointed out A year later Walter S Beach became the first Penn Stater to study mushroom diseases

The first research facility at the Penn State campus, a mushroom test house, was completed in 1928 with funding from the Mushroom Growers Cooperative Association of Kennett Square Joint efforts within the industry, and cooperation with scientists in the U S Department of Agriculture and at other land-grant universities, followed Gradually Penn State became a focal point of mushroom research and education

Significant changes in the mushroom industry came in the early 1930's with the development by James W Sinden of grain spawn, a quality product used as mushroom "seed " Several patents were obtained on the Sinden Grain Spawn Method in 1932 and 1933

Since then the spawn laboratory at Penn State has been responsible for over half of the mushroom stock for the nation's spawn plants Dr Schisler termed this "a significant factor in strain selection and increased yields "

In 1960, a new Mushroom Research Center was constructed at University Park by the General State Authority of Pennsylvania Funds for equipment came from industrial sources An addition to the Center was completed in 1974

Average commercial yield of mushrooms, in pounds per square foot of bed planted, has increased from 1.5 in the 1940's to 2.7 this past year, Dr Schisler said.

He indicated this increased efficiency can be attributed largely to Penn State's mushroom research and education programs including: (1) synthetic compose, (2) forced air ventilation systems, (3) low temperature, second-phase composting of the growing medium, (4) vegetable oil nutrient supplementation of compost, (5) machine spawning or seeding of mushroom beds, (6) a pest-management program based on a biological foundation, and (7) development of a new fungicide to control certain diseases of mushrooms. Another research project has shown that losses due to shrinkage in processing can be reduced at least 10 per cent.

As for ultra-modern equipment, a Mushroom Test-Demonstration Facility was put into operation in 1971 Mechanized production and flow-type design from process to process save both time and labor in growing mushrooms Materials proceed automatically from introduction of composting material at one end to removal of mushrooms and "spent" compost at the other end. An environmental control system integrates all components in the growing procedure

"This labor-saving approach results in 6-½ instead of the usual three crops per year. An annual harvest of nearly 23 pounds per square foot compares with a traditional yield of eight pounds," Dr. Schisler stated.

Free copies of the Bicentennial issue of "Science in Agriculture" are available from the Agricultural Mailing Room, 112 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, Pa. 16802. Some county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service may also have copies.

The cash value of mushroom production in Pennsylvania was nearly $105 million in 1975-76. Commonwealth growers employ close to 10,000 people.

Sixteen animals sold for less than $2000 each, with none selling below the $1000 mark

Hog cholera committee to meet

WASHINGTON, D C - The national hog cholera eradication advisory committee of the U S Department of Agriculture will meet November 8 in Miami, Fla., to review progress in the program to eradicate the costly swine disease and to recommend action to solve current problems

The advisory committee meeting will be held concurrectly with the 80th annual U.S. Animal Health Association(USAHA) convention. Members of the hog cholera eradicaton committees of both the USAHA and the Livestock Conservation Institute have been invited to particiapte.

Two problems still hinder the drive for final eradication, according to Dr. Frank Mulhern, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Insvection Service (APHIS) and vice-chairman of the advisory committee

"First, our scientists believe that hog cholera outbreaks found earlier this year in New England and New Jersey amy have stemmed from the use of illegal hog cholera vaccines," Dr. Mulhern said. "We're fearful that some producers may still have viable vaccine stored in freezers and may use it.

"The swine industry needs to know that any remaining hog cholera vaccines pose a serious threat to the eradication program" He continued Interstate shipment of vaccines was outlawed in 1969.

"Secondly," Dr Mulhern emphasized," even though state and federal animal health officials deal with hog cholera as an exotic disease, producers and veterinarians throughout the United States may not think of it in the same manner. The swine industry must regard a suspected hog cholera outbreak with the same urgency as if it were an outbreak of a foreign animal disease, such as foot-and-mouth disease"

Persons who cannot attend the advisory committee meeting and wish to comment on these or other points may, instead, file comments before or after the meeting by sending them to Dr F. J Mulhern, administrator, APHIS, USDA, Room 316-E, Washington, D C. 20250. Comments will be made available to the public.

Country living preferred by many

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa - Since 1970, population growth in the nonmetropolitan areas of Pennsylvania has exceeded that of the large metropolitan areas, according to rural sociologists at the Pennsylvania State University

Studying Census Bureau data from 1970 to 1974, Dr C Shannon Stokes and associates in the College of Agriculture observed that nonmetropolitan counties in the Commonwealth gained 3 2 per cent in population On the other hand, metropolitan counties lost about one-half per cent of their population during the same period

The increases in nonmetro population occurred for counties non-adjacent to metropolitan areas as well as counties bordering on metropolitan areas Adjacent counties grew by 3 3 per cent, slightly above the 2 4 per cent growth in the more distant nonmetropolitan counties While metropolitan areas have continued to lose since 1970, population outside of these areas has shown a modest increase of 7,500 persons annually

Pennsylvania's trends compare with those of the other Northeastern states, Dr Stokes commented The decade of the 1960's saw nonmetropolitan areas of the Northeast lose an average of just over 17,000 persons annually Since 1970 this loss has changed to a net increase of about 82,000 persons annually on the average

However, the growth in Northeastern states is well below that of the national average. Of a 10 million increase in U. S. population between 1970 and 1974, almost 85 per cent occurred in the South and West.

The Penn State rural sociologist said the development of retirement and recreation areas has attracted many retired persons to rural areas. He noted that Pike County, the most rapidly growing county in Pennsylvania since 1970, has the largest percentage of persons over age 65 in the Commonwealth The growth in Pike County is almost entirely the result of inmigration since annual births and deaths are about equal and thus offset each other

"Growth in retirement and recreation counties is usually not restricted just to persons of retirement age The increase in economic activity and demand for services often stimulates immigration of younger persons as well," he affirmed

Another factor increasing the ability of rural areas to retain population has been the decentralization of manufacturing, he pointed out. Since 1970, this has included an increase in employment in trade and nongoods producing industries such as transportation and services.

The growth of vocational-technical schools, junior colleges, state colleges, and universities was described as another major factor in the growth of nonmetropolitan areas. Dr. Stokes said a study by population analyst Calvin Beale of the U S. Department of Agriculture showed that over 150 nonmetropolitan counties of the nation added such facilities during the 1960's

Class I milk price $11.24 for November

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — A Class I milk price of $11.24 per hundredweight for November was announced last week by Order No. 4 Market Administrator Joseph D. Shea. The price is down 33 cents from October but is 29 cents above the November 1975 Class I price. The September butterfat differential is .30 cents for each one-tenth of a point of butterfat. Middle Atlantic Order prices are announced for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat f.o.b. plants located within 75 miles of Philadelphia and for other plants within 75 miles of the center of Washington, D.C. or Baltimore, Md. There is also a 6 cent direct delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 75 miles of Philadelphia.

A Class II milk price for September, 9.6 of $8.24 per hundredweight was also announced by the Market Administrator. This price is 2 cents below August and is 19 cents above a year ago.

The Order No. 4 November Class I price and the September Class II price are based on the September Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $8.46 per hundredweight for milk testing 3.5 per cent.

The USDA report that the wholesale Grade A butter price at Chicago during September was 92.29 cents. The nonfat dry milk price for the month was 62.27 cents f.o.b. plants in the Chicago area.

Strauss trio takes hog title for second year

MANHEIM Pa A three brother partnership, the Strauss brothers sons of Mr and Mrs Robert D Strauss, Ephrata R1 took the grand champion individual market hog at the Manheim Farm show on Wednesday afternoon They are the same trio that took reserve champion individual at the Ephrata Fair last month, and were the grand champions of the Manheim Farm Show last year, also

Although they own their animals together, Richard, 17, showed this year's champion and Bob, 20, showed the reserve Steve, 16, had the champion sow of the show The champion was a Hampshire-Yorkshire-Duroc cross, bred at Dutch Valley Farm, Manheim R5, where Richard is a swine herdsmen for Mark Nestleroth, this year's Manheim Farm Show president

The champion hog was chosen for its thicker ham area, meatiness, and freer walking ability. To get the animal in top shape, the boys exercised it every day for two weeks.

The brothers' track record is fairly good for the three years they have now been showing. In '74 when they first began, they took a first and second place at the Harrisburg Farm Show, then in '75 they had two third place titles, and last year they took grand champion for which they received $10 per pound. They also had the grand champion at the Ephrata Farm show last year.

"We do this as a sort of hobby," they said, mentioning that they come from a small, 10 acre farm on which they built all their pig facilities themselves. These buildings were not prefabricated, either, but made from sawed lumber and put together by the boys' planning.

This year the Strauss' plan to go to both the Keystone International Livestock Exposition and the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. They now have eight pigs on feed for the Farm Show, and three carcass barrows for Expo.

Bernie Gish, 593 East Hummelstown St., Elizabethtown, was senior showman of the hog judging contest at the Manheim Farm Show.

Showman

This year's senior showman, Bernie Gish, 593 East Hummelstown St, Elizabethtown, is an oddity of sorts. "Bernie" is really the shortened version of the name "Bernadine," so Bernie is a girl - and one of the few girls to place in hog shows at the Lancaster County fairs this season.

This 16-year-old brownette, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Eugene Gish, has been showing her animals for three or four years now with her first big Manheim win coming this year. Prior to this she has won champion showman at 4-H round-up for three years.

Bernie's secrets to showmanship are keeping her pig clean, keeping the pig between herself and the judge, and keeping a close eye on the judge at all times.

"Mostly, I just try to do my best," she says.

A member of the Elizabethtown Pig Club Bernie got started raising pigs about three years ago

Sixth degree awarded

HARRISBURG, Pa The sixth degree, highest in the Pennsylvania State Grange, will be conferred on several hundred Grangers at sessions at Berwick and Sharon this month The first session will be at Berwick High School, Columbia County, at 8 p m on October 16 The second will be at Sharon High School, Mercer County, at 8 p m on October 21, during the 104th annual convention of the State Grange Interest in the sixth degree is high this year because of the National Grange convention which will be held in Atlantic City, N J , in November, according to J Luther Snyder, master of the State Grange

A great many Pennsylvania Grangers, he explained, have indicated their intention to receive the seventh degree at the National convention and to be eligible must have received the state's highest degree The sixth degree was conferred on more than 900 State Grange members at two sessions last year when the National Session was held at Columbus, Ohio State Grange officials will participate in the degree conferral at both Berwick and Sharon Mrs John Master, of Harrisville, RI, Venango County, the State Grange flora, will reign over the ceremonies

4-H project launched

EXTON, PA - Chester County 4-H members, leaders and friends will gather at the Exton Mall to participate in a ceremonial balloon launch, today at 9 30 a m Commissioner Leo McDermott will cut the string sending one hundred helium filled balloons into the air

County 4-H members and leaders have made written pledges (4-H Week resolutions) to be of service to their communities and the county 4-H program Several written pledges will be launched with each balloon "We are hoping that when the balloons are found, wherever they are found, the finders will write to the 4-H'ers reminding them of their resolutions We also hope that the people who find the balloons will become interested in the 4-H program", says Valerie Peoples, County Extension home economist "We don't know how long the balloons will stay up or when they will come down, but if a finder is interested in becoming a 4-H member or leader, they can contact the Extension Service in their area"

The public is invited to join the 4-H balloon ceremony at the Exton Mall

4-H'ers everywhere learn new skills and test innovative ideas Through educational projects and activities, they learn to apply research, science, and technology to make the best better They learn the "whys" as well as the "hows" of what they do Learn how you can be a member of 4-H by contacting your county Extension agent The why will be obvious
